

Ehrlichman, 3 White House 'plumbers' indicted

P.O. Box 3508
SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH 84110

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A grand jury indicted former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman and three members of the White House "plumbers" unit Tuesday in connection with the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. It was reported today.

The grand jury, which returned secret indictments Tuesday, was reported to have charged John D. Ehrlichman with perjury and conspiracy to commit burglary for his alleged role in the September, 1971, break-in of the Los Angeles offices of Dr. Henry Felt.

Convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy and former White House aides David R. Young Jr. and Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr. were said to have been charged with conspiracy to commit burglary.

The identity of those indicted and the charges against them were reported by at least two newspapers — the Los Angeles Times and the Washington Post.

The Post also reported that an aide to Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, James Doyle, said the Los Angeles indictments "might impede our investigation." He refused to elaborate.

Ehrlichman, President Nixon's chief domestic adviser until he resigned under the cloud of Watergate April 30, was charged with perjury, the Post said, on account of conflicts between his grand jury testimony and what he told the Senate Watergate Committee about his prior knowledge of the burglary.

A series of memos from April, 1971, also led the grand jury to believe Ehrlichman had prior knowledge, said the newspaper.

Young, 36, joined Henry Kissinger's national security council staff in early 1970, and 18 months later was transferred to Ehrlichman's domestic affairs council as a presidential assistant. He resigned with Ehrlichman April 30.

Krogh, 33, served in various capacities under Ehrlichman since coming to the White House in 1969. In his letter of resignation as Under Secretary of Transportation May 9, he took "full responsibility" for the Fielding break-in.

The flamboyant Liddy, 42, was general counsel to the Finance Committee to re-elect the President and was convicted as the mastermind of the attempt to buy the Democratic National Committee's offices on June 17, 1972.

In addition to the 6-to-20 year term he received for the Watergate burglary, the steadfastly silent Liddy was given an additional 18 months, which he is now serving in the District of Columbia jail, for refusing to testify after his conviction.

Ehrlichman, 48, was a Seattle lawyer before becoming President Nixon's domestic chief after the 1968 election. He, along with White House chief of staff H.R. "Bob" Haldebrand, were Nixon advance men in the 1960 presidential campaign and worked fulltime during the 1968 campaign.

Ehrlichman, in his Watergate testimony, denied advanced knowledge of the break-in, which was ostensibly part of the "plumbers" attempt to find out who was leaking national security information.

None of the four was immediately available for comment.

Conspirator lectures banned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica today gave Watergate conspirators Jeb Stuart Magruder and James W. McCord Jr. permission to travel but not to give lectures.

"I don't understand and I don't think it's fair, frankly, for Mr. McCord and Mr. Magruder to profit by their wrongdoing, to appear on the lecture platform for $2,000 or what ever it is," Sirica said at a 13-minute hearing.

Watergate committee may split

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said Tuesday the Senate Watergate committee, of which he is vice chairman, may divide into two subcommittees to expedite the hearings.

Baker told a news conference that committee members want to form one subcommittee on campaign financing and another on political espionage when they reconvene later this month.

Agnew leak probe asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson has asked the FBI to investigate reported news leaks from within the Justice Department about the progress of an investigation of kickback allegations against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Richardson said in an interview published today by the Washington Post that "I have indications from news media themselves" that the department was the source of some news stories condemned by Agnew as "a clear and outrageous effort" to influence grand jury proceedings.

Minimum milk price boosted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has increased 13 percent the minimum price which milk dealers in most parts of the country must pay farmers for milk suitable for bottling.

But officials said this was expected to have no immediate effect on consumers in most areas, since the minimum is lower than the market price farmers are being paid now in most places. The increase is about 13 percent, or about 1.5 cents a quart, and will be in effect from Sept. 9 through Sept. 30.

Black Muslim leader killed

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — James Shabazz, a leader of the Black Muslims and an associate of the Muslims' assassinated leader Malcolm X, was shot to death Tuesday by two gunmen who ambushed him as he arrived home.

Police said the shooting could be the result of more internal strife among the Muslims, a black separatist group plagued with rivalries, bombings, and dissent for the past decade.

Top criminal held

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Herman Bell, leader of the Black Liberation army and one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, will be held in New Orleans until an extradition hearing Sept. 12 for his removal to New York.

Bell, wanted for the murder of two New York City policemen as well as a bank robbery in San Francisco in 1971, was captured Sunday by federal agents and New York detectives. He was in New Orleans on $50,000 bond.

Food price rise to continue

LONDON (UPI) — President Nixon's Cost of Living Council director said Tuesday the beef shortage in the United States would soon end but that the surge in world food prices is likely to continue for some time before any moderation.

"The rise in world food prices has been just unprecedented," Prof. John T. Dunlop said at a news conference.

Burley vote today

BURLEY City officials and local civic leaders are strongly divided on whether Burley should change to a council-manager type of government in today's election.

Mayor Garis Robertson and several city councilmen have spoken out in favor of the change during the past several weeks, while city clerk Charles Shaddock, the only announced candidate for mayor, and many other city employees oppose the change from the present mayor-council system.

Civic leaders have voiced strong opinions on both sides of the questions. Former mayor Leonard Salmon, for example, opposes the change.

City residents will determine the outcome of the often heated debate at the polls in three city districts today. The polls are open until 8:00 p.m. Only a simple majority vote is required to effect the change.

If residents vote to change to the council-manager form of government, a new seven-member council will have to be elected in November. The new council would elect one of its members to serve as part-time mayor. He would hold mainly a ceremonial position under the new government.

The council would then seek applications and appoint a city manager. A manager would have general supervision over the city, including policy formation, budgeting, and planning under the direction of the council, which could replace the manager at any time.

If Burley residents decide not to change from their present mayor-council form of government, they will be electing a new mayor and three councilmen this fall.

Reds close in on Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist-led insurgents went on the offensive along Highway 1 southwest of Phnom Penh today and government soldiers suffered heavy losses in another battle only eight miles from the city.

Along Highway 4, leading southwest from Phnom Penh to Cambodia's only deepwater seaport, Communist rebels moved to within easy mortar range of a government artillery battery and threatened a government field headquarters, field reporters said.

Since they seized the vital supply road Aug. 25, the Communists have fought a purely defensive battle. Fierce fighting has raged in the region for the past four days as government troops tried repeatedly to wrest control of the highway from the rebels.

Veteran government troops sent out earlier in the day to try to open the highway were ordered to hold their ground at any cost until at least Thursday morning.

Field reporters said rebels had moved in a semicircle around the town of Ang Snuol and were within mortar range of the government headquarters in the area. The government artillery battery near the headquarters includes two 155 mm cannons.

The rebels attacked with rifles, machine guns, mortars and rockets, the reporters said. The government casualty toll by late afternoon was four killed and 14 wounded, they said.

Fairgoers welcomed

FILER Clear, crisp weather greeted fairgoers arriving this morning for East End day at the Twin Falls County Fair.

Early arrivals witnessed the flag raising ceremony under the direction of the Filer American Legion post and with Old Glory waving over the grounds, the 67th annual Twin Falls county fair began.

Judging was scheduled for 10 a.m. today for flower entries in the produce building and judging also is under way today for 4-H beef, swine and sheep.

The 4-H horses were judged Tuesday with Jane Vincent, Filer, of the Lucky Boots and Spurs 4-H club, receiving the grand champion district titling and showing award.

Steve Anderson, another member of the club, received the grand champion gelding award.

This club received more than 20 district blue ribbons which means members can compete in the district fair at Jerome, according to Mr. and Mrs. Rex Reed, leaders.

The Angus, Charolais and shorthorn shows were held this morning in the beef area. A yearling Angus heifer, owned by the Green Valley Angus ranch, Hobson, Mont., was named grand champion female in the Angus show, and one shown by the Brooks Angus Ranch, Hazelton, was named reserve champion.

JERRY VEGWERT
Burley aide

Vegwert named

BURLEY — Jerry Vegwert, Burley manager of Mountain States Telephone, was appointed by Mayor Garis Robertson to the Burley City Council Tuesday night.

Vegwert's appointment, confirmed unanimously by the council, will fill the position formerly held by Rex Stanley. Stanley resigned last month to avoid a conflict of interest when his son joined the Burley police force.

The mayor, in compliance with state law, declared a city election to be held on November 6, to elect a mayor and three councilmen. In addition to the mayor's position, council posts currently held by James Roper, Sylvan Burgi and Vegwert will be up for a vote.

Taininga sworn

TWIN FALLS — Richard Taininga, television news director, was sworn in Tuesday night as a member of the Twin Falls city council.

He replaces Michael P. Gray, who resigned after completing two years of his four-year term. City Clerk Edy the Koontz administered the oath of office after a unanimous vote by the council approving the Mayor John Christoffersen's appointment of Taininga.

Taininga was also named to fill the current city appointments held by Gray including representing the city council on the Planning and Zoning Commission. He will serve under appointment until the end of 1973. He is to continue on the council; he will have to seek election Nov. 6. Taininga said following the meeting he will run for office at that time and had planned to be a candidate in the coming election prior to Gray's resignation.

Taininga, a native of Seattle, Wash., has been a resident of Twin Falls since 1968 with the exception of a brief time spent in Ogden, Utah. He has worked in radio and television news since 1961 when he graduated from Washington State University. He came to Twin Falls as news director of KTFI radio station in 1968 and returned in 1971 after a brief time in Ogden, at which time he took over the news department of KMYT television, a position he currently holds.

Guerrillas seize embassy, hostages

PARIS (UPI) — Three armed Palestinian guerrillas, reportedly members of Black September, seized the Saudi Arabian embassy and an undetermined number of hostages today, threatening to blow the building up if French authorities did not allow them out of the country.

The terrorists also demanded release of guerrillas jailed in Jordan.

Two shots were fired as the men burst into the embassy about 9:30 a.m. An embassy employee, a Syrian national working as an interpreter, injured his spine when he jumped from a second story window. There were no other casualties reported.

In a message to newsmen at 3:30 p.m. (10:30 a.m. EDT), the guerrillas said: "To safeguard the lives of those in the embassy, it is the responsibility of the French authorities to meet our demands in the next hour and a half or we will blow up this building. If any police come into this building we will blow it up. We have no regard for our own lives."

Hundreds of armed police, wearing helmets and bulletproof vests surrounded the embassy building in the swank 16th district of Paris not far from the Arc de Triomphe. A team of sharpshooters from the crack anti-terrorist squad also were near the embassy, but police made no move to storm the building.

Shouting through a crack in a window, the guerrillas warned: "The French government must not provoke us, otherwise these hostages are in serious danger."

The Kuwaiti ambassador periodically negotiated with the guerrillas from the embassy grounds.

The guerrillas did not identify themselves as members of any organization, but Europe One radio station, an independent station operating out of Luxembourg, quoted an unidentified

Arab ambassador as saying the guerrillas were members of Black September.

Today's attack was on the first anniversary of the Black September attack at the Munich Olympics in which 11 Israeli athletes were killed along with several guerrillas.

Black September also carried out an attack on the Saudi Embassy in Khartoum last March and executed two American diplomats and a Belgian. At that time they were demanding release of guerrilla leader Abou Dawoud from an Jordanian jail. Jordan refused to release him, but King Hussein later commuted his death sentence to life in prison.

Europe One quoted the ambassador as saying the Paris guerrillas wanted to fly to an Arab capital, with five hostages to continue efforts to release Abou Dawoud. He told the radio station there were 11 hostages inside the building.

East smothered by air stagnation

By United Press International

A high-pressure air mass smothered the East Coast for the eighth straight day Tuesday, trapping pollutants in the air, pushing temperatures up into the 90s, and causing widespread power cuts. It was the worst heat wave in seven years.

In New York City, which has gotten the worst of the spell, lighting was visibly dimmer because of a 5 per cent electricity cut by Consolidated Edison, overstrained by air conditioners running full blast.

Manhattan was so thick with industrial smog and exhaust, caused by the lid which prevents air from rising, that an air stagnation advisory was issued by the National Weather Service. Hospitals said they had had an increase in admissions for respiratory ailments. If pollutants build to higher levels, the Environmental Protection Administration said it could put the city on alert.

Thunderstorms, buoyed by the heat and moist air pushed inland from tropical storm Delia, Tuesday raced across the flat plains of Texas. A 110 m.p.h. wind, gust ripped through Big Springs, Tex., killing or injuring dozens of persons.

Power companies in the Northeast Tuesday cut back voltage 5 per cent, trying to store up electricity before the demands of straining air conditioners.

Ocean temperatures off New Jersey remained at record highs with the water registering 83 degrees.

Schools in Prince Georges and Montgomery County, Md., cut classes short for school children.

In New York, feeder cable problems in Queens forced Consolidated Edison to impose a blackout in some areas. A Don Ed spokesman urged customers to avoid using their air conditioners except for health reasons.

"We desperately need the cooperation of our customers to avoid any major breakdowns on networks in the metropolitan area," he said.

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation banned open burning in a mild air stagnation watch for New York City, Long Island and Stockland and Westchester Counties.

Temperatures climbed to 94 degrees in Boston, a record high for the day since 1884. Temperatures rose to 95 degrees in Hartford, Conn., and 90 degrees at Burlington, Vt.

The New England Power Exchange (NEPEX) appealed to its customers to refrain from using their air conditioners. A NEPEX spokesman saw no relief from the late summer heat spell today and said another 5 per cent voltage reduction appeared likely.

Scattered showers cooled off a 10-day heat wave in Chicago. Weekend rains broke the heat and drought in many areas of the Plains. A cold front pushed cooler, drier air over the Rockies and northern Plains.

Nixon estate audit kept from public

NEW YORK (UPI) — The firm that audited President Nixon's real estate holdings did a complete audit on Nixon's financial condition, but the White House has not made public the entire statement, the firm said Tuesday.

Norman F. Auerbach, a partner of Coopers & Lybrand, refused to divulge what the President kept back. The 1969-73 audit may show whether Nixon paid taxes on his profit from the sale of most of his $1.5 San Clemente estate to two close friends, Charles G. Helpl, Rebozo and Robert H. Abplanalp.

MIA talk stalled by Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States today accused the Communists of stalling tactics that have blocked progress in determining the fate of more than 1,000 American soldiers missing in the Indochina war.

In its first public and official denunciation of Communist foot-dragging, the American delegation to the four-party joint military team (JMT) said "this becomes a pretext for inaction since agreement requires exchange of information about missing persons and repatriation of remains of the dead."

A U.S. delegation statement said that "after more than 21 weeks of negotiations and 40 plenary sessions" of the JMT, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations "continue to avoid meeting their commitments" on locating troops missing in action.

The statement referred to an article in the Jan. 27 peace agreement requiring all four parties to "provide information about personnel missing in action and facilitate the remains of persons who died in captivity or were killed in action."

TF council adopts five ordinances

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Five ordinances were adopted Tuesday night by Twin Falls city council members to grant zoning variances or conditional use following a lengthy public hearing.

A sixth item on the public hearing agenda was tabled pending a review now being made by the Planning and Zoning Commission. This proposal calls for reducing the minimum number of off-street parking spaces now required for professional offices.

Ordinances approved under suspension of the rules with the third and final reading held Tuesday night included a zoning variance for Title Fact Inc., to allow a slight reduction in off-street parking for their proposed new building. Also approved were a variance on back yard setback to allow a carport at the Tom Koto home, 368 Strandor St., and a zoning variance for John E. Davis, 2155 Hillcrest Drive, to reduce side yard setback by constructing a family room and breezeway. An ordinance to provide a conditional use for Elva C. Knowles for converting a garage into a beauty salon at 189 Filmy St., was passed, in addition to another conditional use for Nancy L. Attix for establishing a knitting and needle craft shop in her home at 1426 Falls Ave. E.

Council members approved the ordinances contingent upon adequate off-street parking for employees and customers where the business uses are being allowed in residential areas.

Other zoning matters discussed by the council but not covered by the public hearing included a request from Chemical Supply Co. for renovation of the old service station at Shoshone Street and Ninth Avenue East.

The firm requested use of the property in a residential zone for an accounting office in connection with its warehouse located in the industrial area.

A letter requesting the permission to establish the accounting office stated no retail sales of chemicals would be handled there but would continue from the warehouse. Building Inspector Reed Coulam questioned the use, saying he felt it was too closely tied to the retail sales operation and would become a retail outlet. Councilman Mike Gray said the council could not assume this and could only accept terms of the application.

Gray said he did not believe the council could turn down a request on the basis of what might be done by the firm, but could take action if a violation occurred later. The council approved the request unanimously.

Al Henkula requested a curb cut variance for his proposed new beauty shop at 162 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. He said he would provide parking in front of the building and at the rear and had an agreement with the adjoining property owner for mutual use of each other's property for backing in and out of the parking spaces. The curb cut was granted providing all other city requirements are met.

Variances were also granted Leon Ellis, 1145 Syringa Drive, and Lyle Cunningham, 105 Moreland Av., for construction of carports. These requests were covered in a previous public hearing.

By a vote of five to two, the council approved a curb design variance for the new Lloyd Hamilton Insurance Agency building on Shoshone Street on the basis of better traffic safety. The move will require modifying the city ordinance to allow for the change as it is prohibited under the present ordinance.

DARRELL SURBER, coordinator

CSI sets vet program

TWIN FALLS — A new federally-funded program to inform veterans of educational benefits has started this fall at the College of Southern Idaho.

"We're trying to contact the veteran by mail and by telephone to explain what his benefits are and how long he has to use them," Darrell Surber, CSI Coordinator of Veteran Affairs, said.

Surber said his office is making an intensive effort to contact veterans throughout Idaho, inform them of the educational benefits available and describe the academic and vocational programs at the College of Southern Idaho.

Every major college in the state has a Veterans Coordinator now, Surber said. The efforts of the coordinators overlap, but each college will be able to inform the veterans of its particular program, he added.

Surber's first job is to locate Idaho veterans by checking the Veterans Administration, the State Department of Employment, courthouses, the National Guard, Selective Service and other places where veterans might be listed. In the month his office has been open Surber has contacted 600 veterans.

Even though other campus veteran coordinators also are tracking down veterans, Surber said he has not yet tried to coordinate his efforts with theirs. He said there will be a Veterans Administration meeting in Boise next month and the Veterans Coordinators may pool their information then.

Surber said veterans are entitled to payments to help them continue their education for up to 36 months after discharge or 48 months if they are disabled. These benefits are available to veterans for eight years.

Until the spring of 1974, however, all persons who have served in the Armed Forces since Jan. 31, 1955 are entitled to the educational benefits, Surber added.

In addition to contacting veterans and informing them of the educational benefits available, Surber serves as a veteran counselor at CSI. He helps the veterans with a wide range of problems, including planning a college curriculum, finding part-time employment and filling out the forms necessary to declare eligibility for benefits.

Art history class set at CSI

TWIN FALLS — A class in Twentieth Century Art History will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday in room 208 of the Shields Academic Building at the College of Southern Idaho.

The class is being offered through Idaho State University's continuing education program. It will deal with concepts of painting, sculpture and architecture as well as those behind museums and art galleries and the public's role and involvement in art. The class can be taken for upper division or graduate credit. It will be taught by Michael Green, assistant professor of art at CSI.

Plans in motion for TF election

TWIN FALLS — Preparations for the Nov. 6 city election in Twin Falls were set in motion Tuesday night when the city council adopted the 1973 municipal election resolution and ordinance.

There will be four city council members elected to the seven man board. Three will serve four-year terms and one a two-year term to fill the vacancy left by the Tuesday night resignation of Michael P. Gray.

The resolution provides polling places for the city's ten voting precincts and set election hours Nov. 6 from noon to 8 p.m. Polling places for precincts one to ten in that order will include the County Courthouse, City Hall, Will's Motor Co., Robert Stuart Junior High School, Harrison School, Buttreys Super Market, Washington School, Senior High School, YMCA building, Morningside school.

Persons may register until 9 p.m. Nov. 3 with the city clerk's office handling registration and remaining open from 7 to 9 p.m. in addition to regular hours on Nov. 1, 2 and 3.

The resolution provides all qualified residents of the city may register and vote but stipulates persons must be a resident of the city 30 days in order to register for the election.

City Clerk Edythe Koomer said following the meeting there will be no registration at the polls in the city election, according to rulings received by the League of Idaho Cities from the office of the attorney general. Persons must be registered in advance of the election and those who have moved to a new precinct, have not voted in the past city election or who are new to the community or new voters must register.

She said the Idaho League has also stated a candidate must be a resident of the state for three months to qualify for a nominating petition.

The election ordinance described boundaries of the 10 voting precincts, the same as in the 1971 election except for newly annexed areas which were included in the adjacent precincts. A map will be published showing these areas.

Following adoption of the ordinance, Mayor John Christoffersen said he holds one of the expiring terms and will not seek reelection.

Other terms to be filled are now held by Paul Ostyn, Henry Woodall and Richard Tuininga, named to succeed Gray.

In other business, the city reviewed a mobile home park plan and gave tentative approval to developer Ross Ward; granted a zoning fee waiver to Harbor House, granted city employees a half day vacation for the county fair Thursday and authorized City Manager Jean Miller to take an option on property across the alley from city hall for future city building purposes.

Bids were authorized for purchase of a tractor and sweeper for the city parks department and will be opened Sept. 25. A resolution was approved for a joint agreement with the State Department of Highways for Federal Aid System highways through the city. The federal and state payments now amount to about 82 per cent and the city costs to 18 per cent for renovation and repairs. Streets involved in the agreement include South Blue Lakes from Kimberly Road to the city limits, about .25 of a mile, and Washington Street between Shoup and Falls avenues, about .9 of a mile.

YMCA schedules events for fall

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley YMCA will be offering many activities for boys and men this fall.

For youth, the "Y" has wrestling classes Wednesday nights, judo classes Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Lincoln School, table tennis Monday and Thursday evenings, archery classes Monday and Wednesday afternoons, a big V Letterman's Contest and a physical fitness class Tuesday and Thursday.

The Y will sponsor two leagues this fall: the Men's Volleyball League and the Soccer League.

The Y will also sponsor a number of community programs: the Y-Indian Guides for fathers and first through third grade sons; Y-Indian Maidens for mothers and first through third grade daughters; and the H-Y for high school students.

For a detailed list of the times, dates and places for all YMCA programs call the YMCA office at 733-4384.

Interested persons also may stop by the YMCA-VWCA's booth in Moreland's building No. 1 at the county fair or attend the YMCA-VWCA open house Wed., Sept. 12 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the V. Instructors and leaders will be there to describe each of the classes offered.

Make It Pay

Speaking last spring at a meeting of the Ohio Correction Court Service Association, one judge cited the new Southern Ohio Penitentiary at Lucasville as an example of the cost of crime and its aftermath.

Judge Manuel M. Rocker projected a cost of $12.5 million over the next five years with a "product failure" of 75 per cent. "Only we don't call it product failure in our business," he said. "We call it recidivism."

Recidivism is a term describing the tendency of an appalling number of supposedly rehabilitated offenders to return to a life of crime.

If he were making his projection today, the judge would have to revise it sharply upward. Built to replace the old state pen in Columbus, the Lucasville facility was rocked in July by the killing of two guards and a walkout by guards protesting "soft" treatment of prisoners.

An investigating task force, however, labeled the new prison, its mortar hardly dry, as already an "obsolete monstrosity" run by ineffectual administrators, manned by undertrained, grudge-bearing guards and full of hostile prisoners who, following the slaying, were kept naked in their cells for days without even essential personal belongings such as toothbrushes and eyeglasses.

In light of what has happened at Lucasville, and at other prisons around the country, other aspects of Judge Rocker's talk bear repeating:

"We must do something about criminals as people if we are to reduce their numbers and prevent the breeding of new ones," he emphasized. One of the best places to begin that process is in the prisons where we have control of large numbers of men today, tomorrow, next week, next year and for many years.

Thoughts

For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven: a time to love, and a time to hate; a time for war, and a time for peace. — Ecc. 3:1, 8

Time is not measured by the passing of years, but by what one does, what one feels, and what one achieves. Jawaharlal Nehru, India's first prime minister.

O Lord, why dost thou cast me off? Why dost thou hide thy face from me? Afflicted and close to death from my youth up, I suffer thy terrors, I am helpless. — Psalm 88:14, 15

Strength is born in the deep silence of long suffering hearts; not blind joy. — Felicia Hemans, English novelist.

He proposes that prisoners be made employees of private industry, receiving going pay rates and all of the fringe benefits, including unemployment compensation. Social Security hospitalization for themselves and their families and even paid vacation, which would make possible short-term returns to society to determine the readiness of a prisoner for permanent release.

Labor union resistance would end, the judge believes, because under this plan a prisoner would become a dues-paying member of the applicable union. He would leave prison with a union membership card, thus making it easier for him to find employment.

A trusteeship would be set up over prisoner earnings. A portion would be dispensed to the prisoner for personal use. The balance would be deposited in a joint savings account, except for other portions deducted for family support or for purposes of restitution.

A prisoner would pay room and board, rather than imposing this additional burden on the state, county or city. Another advantage of the plan is that a prisoner would become a source of revenue to the community, since taxes would be deducted from his earnings.

At the time of release or parole, two exceptional things would happen that have never happened before, says the judge. A prisoner would leave the institution with a sizable bank account, and he could, with a minimum of fight, be able to resist a return to crime for mere subsistence.

"For those among us who think in terms of self-preservation, the cold-cash thinkers in the community, maybe this plan will find acceptance," said Judge Rocker.

"For through it, crime will pay us."

It's Government By Outrage?

(c) New York Times Service W.A.S.H.I.N.G.T.O.N.

Personalities keep dominating the news here in the blinding heat of Washington. What's going on between President Nixon and Vice President Agnew? How are they going to deal with one another and with these independent characters like Judge Sirica, Attorney General Elliot Richardson, and Sen. Sam Ervin, who keep asking awkward questions. Washington loves things like this: Is Nixon mad at Agnew or is Agnew sore at Nixon? And if the President wasn't worried about what the Vice President was about to say or do, why would he hurry back from San Clemente at Agnew's request? Well, it is all very intriguing and it takes your mind off the heat momentarily; but it also takes Washington's mind off the things that have to be done about correcting the corruption which is at the base of all these troubles.

Two specific problems, among many others, are ready for action around here, and they may be more important in the long run than what happens to the personalities and the popularity polls. These are the problems of controlling the practice of spying on personal privacy, which got the President into so much trouble; and the practice of misusing vast government contracts for political or private gain, which is the basis of the criminal investigation of Vice President Agnew.

Aside from the present controversies over bugging and burglarizing the Democrats and using government contracts for political kickbacks, the fact is that, since the last World War, there has developed a very serious national problem in these fields which requires corrective legislation.

The Watergate scandals tell us almost more about the improper invasion of personal privacy in America than most people seem to want to know, but they don't tell us about the things we don't know about the growing system of surreptitious surveillance.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin has been howling in protest about this ever since 1967. He has been pointing out that at least 50 different federal agencies, with more than 20,000 investigators, have been operating in the United States, often on legitimate missions, but often not, and always without effective congressional supervision or control.

These include agents, not only from the FBI or the CIA or the military intelligence services, but from the post office, the Narcotics Bureau of the Treasury, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Internal Revenue Service, the Food and Drug Administration, the State Department and the Civil Service Commission, among many others.

Also, this at a time when new inventions in the field of electronic surveillance make it much easier to monitor telephones, or even overhear private conversations in private dwellings. In fact, the art of snooping has become so sophisticated that it almost makes you grateful for the clumsiness of the Watergate burglars, and of the "so-called" intelligence operators of the army, who kept dossiers on more than 100,000 American citizens and got caught storing all this information in over 350 record centers throughout the country.

What has happened here over the last postwar generation is that the scientific capacity to use the arts of wartime espionage on private citizens has greatly expanded, while the political capacity to control all this has actually declined.

In much the same way, the federal government's power to grant lucrative contracts for highways, government buildings and services, to pick builders, choose consultants, rent office space, finance public housing, university housing, etc., has greatly expanded — precisely at a time when the cost of political campaigning has gone through the roof. The temptations of all this are perfectly obvious.

Thus every watchful mind in this city knows that the problems of illegal political spying and illegal political kickbacks are not limited to Watergate and the current Baltimore investigation. No doubt there was a lot of political fiddling in the past but the explosion of electronic invention and of government building since the last war has greatly increased the temptation and the need for remedial legislation.

Fortunately, sometimes our main hope in Washington is that these outrages will enable the government to do sensible things. There is a danger, however, that the personal problems of the President and the Vice President now may divert the Congress from the legislation which is already in committee, and as a result of recent scandals, could now be passed.

"The natural progress of things," Thomas Jefferson wrote 185 years ago, "is for liberty to yield and government to gain ground." And Mr. Justice Felix Frankfurter observed 30 years ago that "The history of liberty has largely been the history of procedural safeguards."

Well, liberty has been yielding; government has been gaining and the "procedural standards" have been breaking down in Washington, and the correction of these fundamentals is likely to be more important in the future than anything else.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Those Histamine Headaches

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain "histamine headache"? It is getting to be quite a "popular" diagnosis. I was told recently by a neurologist that this was the cause of my attacks, but so far I have not been able to get anyone to explain it to me. Mrs. C.W.H.

The term, I dare say, is being more used lately, but that type of headache was also diagnosed pretty frequently in the past, only under another name. It is also called Horlan's syndrome, histamine cephalgia, and "cluster headaches."

The headache is caused by a sudden release of histamine in the body, and histamine is a blood vessel dilator. Hence the headache, as blood surges through expanded blood vessels.

Cluster headaches are that it comes on suddenly, often at night, and there is severe pain in the eyeball, runny nose and tears from one eye.

It should not be confused with migraine, which is a familial sort of thing; while histamine headache is not. Nor is it preceded by an aura, or warning signs, as is true of migraine. Attacks usually run their course in about 45 minutes, which is far briefer than a migraine.

The term "cluster headache," incidentally, derives from the fact that several attacks are likely to occur in a short time, followed by a longer period free from attacks.

This particular headache frequently occurs after drinking too much alcohol — sometimes after not drinking very much. Or it occurs in people who are fatigued. An attack can be allayed somewhat by use of an ergot preparation in suppository form.

Incidentally, this is one type of headache which occurs more commonly in men, although women are far from exempt.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that the protein of soybean products is not digested by animals or human beings? — C.T.

No, sir. That's not true.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a cataract on my right eye, and would like to know what would happen if I do not go through with an operation I had planned. Will this affect the other eye?

I cannot see myself wearing contact lenses as I am a sheet metal worker and my hands are always dirty in this work. — J.T.G.

The cataract has destroyed some or most of the vision in that one eye; otherwise you wouldn't have planned the operation. That eye will continue to lose vision.

Not having the operation will not affect the other eye, but usually when a cataract develops in one eye, a cataract is starting or will start in the other eye.

I do not see why your work should stop you from having the operation. You can wash your hands if it becomes necessary to remove or adjust the contact lens — but that isn't something that you are going to have to do every few minutes. For that matter, you could wear appropriate spectacles instead of contact lenses.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had prostate surgery.

Since the seminal fluid now goes into the bladder, do I still have to be on guard not to become pregnant? — R.K.G.

Yes, because you have no guarantee that some of the fluid, including live sperm, may not in one manner or another escape.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "The Prostate." Enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (no zip code), stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain sarcoid and its therapy cure? I am 30.

The doctor said I had a growth on my lung and it was removed. I thought the trouble was all over, but from what I have heard, it isn't. Sometimes my eye flares up just like a toothache.

How do you get the disease? Is it fatal? If so how long does it take? I think I would feel better if I knew. — Miss G. G.

Sarcoid, or more usually referred to as sarcoidosis, is a peculiar disease featured by formation of clumps of cells called granulomata — hence the growth in your lung.

The disorder was first described about 100 years ago and for a long time was considered rare. In the last 20 years or so it has been found to be fairly common.

Quite often it is discovered in chest X-rays as it often attacks the lungs, but it can affect almost any part of the body — skin, lungs, eyes, bone, lymph nodes and other organs.

From mere appearance in X-rays (chest X-rays, I mean) it can be confused with tuberculosis, although in fact it has no relationship whatever to the disease. Diagnosis is confirmed by tissue examination of a lymph node or by a skin test known as the Kveim test.

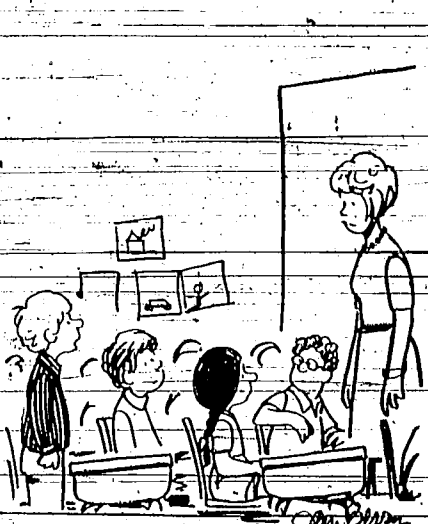

In general symptoms aren't too severe and the course of the disorder is slow. That is why it so often is not suspected until a chest X-ray (or sometimes some other form of examination) reveals it.

The most effective treatment is with steroid (cortisone-type) medication. In many cases, it disappears spontaneously.

You ask if it is fatal. It can be if it continues to progress and reaches a chronic stage, and if vital organs, such as the heart or kidneys, are involved. So continue treatment as long as your doctor finds necessary. Adequate treatment, with steroids has done a great deal to change the outlook of the disease.

How do you get the disease? We wish we knew. The cause is not known. Likewise we do not know why, but there is a strong preponderance of the disease in blacks, although it most certainly is not limited to them, and females are affected more than males.

BERRY'S WORLD

MR. SPECTATOR

These Guys Will Get Some Snow—Or Else!

It is really hard to believe—but drought conditions are so bad in the Northwest that the Bonneville Power Administration is proposing a cloud-seeding program this winter in the hungry Horse drainage basin of northwestern Montana.

Officials of the BPA have been very concerned about lack of moisture to fill the reservoirs which ultimately make the power—and if they do not get an adequate moisture level this winter things will really be bad come next spring. It will be even worse than this upcoming winter—with power cutbacks across the line.

But getting back to the contemplated cloud-seeding, Officials said the completion of the Montana program depended on the natural snowfall. If it doesn't show up then the cloud-seeding will be continued in an all out effort to get a snow pack on the ground.

A good snowfall would enable the reservoirs to be drawn completely down to produce electricity needed this winter. If there is no snow then some of the available water must be left for spring and summer electricity demands.

And with all this going on, and the electric shortages real and serious—Ralph Nader comes up with a request that all nuclear power plants be scrapped. If we listen to him we'll all be in the dark!

TODAY'S CHUCKLE:

Doctor to patient: "Let me know if this prescription works. I'm having the same trouble myself."

MOMENT OF TRUTH:

For many of this summer's initiatives into vegetable gardening, the moment of truth is here. When that hardy care given all these months suddenly turns into a county greatly in excess of current needs, what becomes of the surplus?

That question would not have been necessary in a former era. Canning is the obvious answer; and it was tackled with a rare form of exuberance—almost akin to a party—in a different age.

Some people still can fresh fruits and vegetables in season, but for many modern kitchen managers, canning is something done in a factory; if their cooking skills have not been fully developed, perhaps this is good.

Few undertakings can be quite as disastrous as a canning session, which turns into a failure. Not only is a quantity of good food ruined but so are the nerves, some Mason jars and perhaps some of the wall covering. Not to mention the disappointing experience of bringing out the prized product some months later and finding it has become a moldy mess to be thrown away.

Home canning can be the kind of experience which persuades the inept that precooked, frozen, convenience goods are here to stay.

Which reminds—Mr. Spectator that in the "old days" his Mother did the canning but he did some growing. A cleared space in the back yard produced carrots, beets and some potatoes. Not because he would eat any of the stuff but because it was easy to grow. And what a garden that doesn't produce!

THOSE MONTHS

A consulting firm, we read in the last issue of the Wall Street Journal, has managed to combine three of the top issues of the day—food shortages, paper shortages and ecology—into a single product. Resource Planning Associates has produced a recyclable calendar which can be eaten, sewn or mailed, according to the month. January is printed on dissolving cellulose paper, using vegetable dye for ink. That, says the manufacturer, is the closest thing there is to an edible paper.

Another month is a sewing pattern for a stuffed toy. November is printed on gift wrapping, and December is a punch-out Christmas card. That could pose a problem for enterprising users who aren't ready to mail out the month until it's over.

A FRIEND said the other day he finally agreed with something ancient would be a good program announcer—real and said over the air.

"How come you finally agreed with something he said?" we asked him, knowing such a decision was unusual. "Well," said our friend, "Even a stopped clock is right twice a day."

'Confidential' Nixon tapes said 'tossed around'

By DON BACON
(c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — For something so confidential and vital to the national security, the Nixon tapes have been tossed around rather loosely by the president.

At least five persons, not including the Secret Service technicians who monitored the recording equipment, have listened to one or more of Nixon's famous, private records. Spools of the tape, which have become the object of a fierce constitutional struggle between the White House and the other two government branches, have been carried all over Washington and northern Virginia by Presidential aides Lawrence Higby and Stephen Bull and, most importantly, by former top Nixon aide, H.R. Haldeman.

Haldeman has testified that he took a box of tapes home on the night of July 16, at the President's request, and played at least one of them a secret Oval Office recording of the Sept. 16, 1972, meeting between Nixon, Haldeman and John Dean, at which Dean testified the Watergate coverup was discussed.

Haldeman picked up the tapes at the home of Higby, who had been Haldeman's assistant at the White House and who stayed on after Haldeman resigned in April.

Bull, another former Haldeman assistant, brought the tapes from the White House.

Thus for a period of at least 24 hours — perhaps much longer — the tapes, which Nixon argues are so extremely sensitive, were well out of Nixon's control. Some could have been copied, altered, edited or destroyed.

Beside Haldeman, Nixon has also asked others to listen to various taped conversations, including Bull and Nixon's two chief Watergate lawyers, J. Fred Buzhardt and Charles Alan Wright. In addition, former White House aide Alexander Butterfield, who used to supervise the bugging operation, said he has listened to a number of tapes in the course of checking their technical quality.

Where the tapes are now remains anyone's guess. The White House will not even say the tapes are, and will remain intact. Nixon's lawyers say only that they are in the President's personal possession, which apparently means he has relieved the Secret Service of the responsibility of guarding them. Judging from the number of aides who had access to the tapes, they were never under careful watch anyway.

All of this weakens Nixon's case that the tapes must be suppressed, even from Judge John Sirica in camera, in order to protect the "confidentiality" of Presidential conversations. How many persons must hear a recording of a document before its confidentiality is eroded — and a Presidential claim of executive privilege becomes invalid?

As Prof. Wright, Nixon's adviser on constitutional law, noted recently: "It is very difficult to make any claim of a privilege for material that is no longer confidential. I can't offhand think of an example of a nonconfidential document as to which you have constitutional privilege."

Much to Nixon's dismay, the withholding of the tapes might prevail. Releasing the tapes perhaps will weaken the presidency. But weighed against the reality of the Watergate and the crisis of national confidence it has created, his case is, as Judge Sirica noted in his impressive opinion, "not persuasive."

Arab oil 'weapon' told

By JUAN DE ONIS
(c) 1973 New York Times Service

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The emerging Arab strategy for use of oil as a political weapon against Israel is based on the possibility of a serious energy shortage in the Western industrial countries and Japan.

A minute east producers restrict their oil output.

The thinking prevailing now in Arab official circles is that a slow squeeze on available supplies should serve to persuade consumers that they had better be friendlier to the Arabs.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, the ruler of the world's richest oil country, has been warning the American public in a series of statements that the United States must end what he calls "unlimited support" of Israel.

Zayed Bin Sultan Al-Nahyan, the ruler of Abu Dhabi, an oil-producing emirate on the Persian Gulf, put the case this way during a recent interview:

"We Arabs do not interfere in America's affairs and we do not ask you to support us, but we do ask you to take a neutral stance. As for assisting our enemies both secretly and openly, and then asking why the Arabs dislike you, that is a pointless question."

Although the firebrand Arab political press is full of demands for a "cut-off" of Arab oil supplies to supporters of Israel, the policymakers are not looking for any immediate showdown with Western oil consumers.

In an interview last week,

King Faisal couched his warnings to the United States with an equally clear warning to Arab public opinion that there must be no reckless "gamble" with the "oil weapon."

Even Libya, one of the more radical Arab regimes, which last week took over a 51 per cent interest in all foreign oil companies that had not been nationalized earlier, has asserted that she does not intend to reduce current production or disregard existing oil delivery contracts.

Strike halts study

SMITHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — About 2,400 students remained home today as a teacher strike in protest of school budget cuts kept 100,000 County schools closed.

A spokesman for County Schools Superintendent J. H. Hendrixson said there was no indication when the schools would open.

The teachers voted last week not to report to classes until the county restored $150,000 eliminated from the school budget by the county court.

Bus drivers voted to support the teachers and did not drive their buses this morning.

The teachers said the issue did not concern salaries but the impact the cuts would have on programs for students. The cuts would eliminate a kindergarten program and a new vocational school.

The teachers are expected to present a list of demands for more than 1,000 names to County Judge Billy Tate on either today or Wednesday asking for a special meeting of the County Court to resolve the issue.

Telethon donation accepted

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The general chairman of the local "Jerry Lewis" Telethon drive late Monday confirmed that the charity had accepted an anonymous $10,000 cash contribution from the "Guinnessville Marijuana Dealers Association."

The contribution is a package filled with four or five hundred dollars bills and the rest in old twenties, tripled the local contributions from about $5,000 to over $15,000 for the Labor Day telethon fund locally in conjunction with WKFS-TV in Jacksonville.

At first Jim McVoy, the general chairman of the local campaign, run by the Jaycees, did not want to tell reporters about the contribution, but he told one radio newsmen just before midnight he indeed had accepted the money. "I was just as surprised as anyone," he was quoted as saying.

McVoy said he consulted with police and was told that as long as the money was not new, and they had no reason to believe it was "stolen," police had no objections to the telethon accepting the donation.

Movie banned in Korea

SEOUL (UPI) — The South Korean Education Ministry Monday banned elementary and high school students from viewing the film "The Godfather."

The action was a response to public criticism that the film, describing the violent life of a Mafia family, might adversely affect the growing generation.

The film opened to the public for the first time in Korea Saturday and has drawn sold-out audiences since.

The Caucasus mountain region of the Soviet Union is home to the world's largest well-documented number of people more than 100 years old. A 1970 census placed the number of centenarians at 4,500 to 6,000.

Fair display slated
FILED — The Idaho Alcohol Safety-Audit-Drifast will feature a six-foot blood Alcohol Content calculator at its display at the Twin Falls County Fair which opened today.

The display is located inside Merchants Building No. 2, 12th Street, ASAT director, and the calculator is designed so that each individual can determine his drinking limit.

Although drinking and driving is never a safe combination, most experts say that a person's ability to drive becomes impaired at a blood alcohol content level of .05 percent or more. By turning the wheel, each person can determine how many drinks he may consume in a two-hour period before his ability to drive would become impaired.

A chemist from the Department of Environmental and Community Services will be at the ASAT booth from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. to draw a measure of blood alcohol content, Pieper said.

Defense budget rapped
(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Senate critics of the Pentagon are convinced that big savings can be made in the defense budget as what they regard as "mumpower" fat can be cut out of the military establishment.

Pentagon spokesmen acknowledged the accuracy of some of the cited examples of striking mumpower costs which have stirred the Senate criticism. They confirmed, for example:

- That the defense department which is now down to just over 2 million military men has a civilian bureaucracy of 1.1 million persons. The civilian payroll comes to about $13.5 billion a year.
- That the number of high-priced civilian bureaucrats in high-level posts is 7,300 — almost double the number of 1961 — these 7,300 executives earn between $27,000 and $50,500 a year.
- That today's military force of 2.2 million men has more high-ranking officers than in 1945, when there were 121 million in uniform. For example, generals and admirals of three or four-star rank number 106 today which is 12 more than in 1945. Also, there are 15,378 colonels and Navy captains today compared to 14,000 in 1945.

To the Pentagon spokesmen, however, these figures do not appear excessive. Their explanation is that more top-level people are needed in both the military and civilian branches because of new commands and greater technology in the defense business.

But with 56 per cent of this year's $79 billion defense budget going for manpower, the Senate critics are not satisfied with the Pentagon assurances. The only way to cut this figure is to reduce the number of men in uniform total by 150,000 from 2,232,000 to 2,076,000.

This is intended, in part, to get at the "gate" creep — the number of men produced more high-ranking brass now than in 1945, and to produce an estimated overall savings of $1.2 billion a year.

Next, the committee adopted an amendment which would let Congress authorize the number of civilians employed by the Pentagon — something it never has done before.

GM, Ford on trial for price fixing

DETROIT (UPI) — The price-fixing trial of General Motors and Ford, the nation's two biggest car makers, opened in federal court Tuesday. A government victory in the case could make the companies liable for hundreds of millions of dollars in civil claims already filed in 31 states.

The auto makers used to give discounts to car rental agencies, police departments, and other buyers of fleets of cars. But this practice was abandoned by both firms in 1970.

The federal government thinks the two corporate giants agreed mutually to end the discounts, and in so doing violated the Sherman Anti-Trust act by causing prices in the fleet trade to be set artificially, as opposed to normal forces of supply and demand on a competitive market.

Both auto makers have denied any conspiracy.

Questioning of more than 30 prospective jurors began before U.S. District Court Judge John Feikens.

The civil suits seeking damages were filed by fleet owners seeking discounts they have been denied for the past three years.

In addition, both automakers could face maximum fines of $100,000 each if convicted in the government's criminal action.

The suit could also affect the entire dealer distribution system the industry relies on to sell its vehicles, because dealers might have to share the costs if damages are won.

The Justice Department's case describes two other groups, the 20,000-member National Association of Automobile Dealers and Peterson, Howell & Heather, Inc., the nation's largest auto-leasing company, as "middlemen" that conveyed information between the auto firms that brought about the alleged agreement.

Both automakers, however, have denied there was any plot to end the discounts and other special considerations they had been giving fleet owners since the early 1960's.

"It's not a story of conspiracy or collusion," William P. Keel Jr., chief counsel for Ford, told the prospective jurors during a brief description of the case Tuesday. "It's merely a chapter in the economic history of the auto business."

Keel said Ford began offering the discounts to regain some of the fleet market grabbed by Chrysler when it began discounting in 1962, then dropped the program in 1970 because it was no longer needed.

GM attorney Fred H. Bartlett Jr. said his company ended the program because the resale value of its Chevrolet models had improved so much that fleet owners were able to get better and better prices for cars they used when they traded them in.

Sudan declares emergency state

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — The Sudan government today declared a two-week state of emergency throughout the country following days of student riots and a threatened strike by trade unions, Omdurman Radio said.

Declaring the state of emergency, Vice President Mohammed Al Baghi Ahmed said the trade unions have threatened to walk out in criticism of the government's handling of last week's student riots.

The state of emergency will give the government special powers to deal with the threatened strike, political sources said.

The newspaper Al Ayam today said 250 persons were being questioned in connection with the student riots, in which at least two persons were killed.

"The Khartoum University incident, which later spread to the streets and covered secondary schools and trade unions, is the main reason for the recent abnormal situation and disorder in the country," the vice president said.

Al Baghi was acting in the absence of President Gaafar Numeiry, who was in Algiers for a non-aligned nations conference.

All schools in Khartoum Province were ordered closed Monday until further notice following five days of street demonstrations by students.

Government officials have blamed the demonstrations on Communists and members of

Skylab astronaut sets space endurance record

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab-2 Commander Alan Bean set a space endurance record today expected to stand for decades.

The fourth man to walk on the moon, Bean took over the time-in-space record from Charles "Pete" Conrad, commander of the Skylab 1 mission and fellow Apollo 12 moonwalker, at 6:13 a.m. EDT. At that moment, Bean had spent 42 days, three hours, 38 minutes and 37 seconds in space.

By the end of the 59-day flight, Bean will have traveled 69 days and 16 hours through the weightless void. All three members of the Skylab 3 crew's 56-day mission later this year have never flown in space before.

Bean and his rookie crewmen, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, had another sweep with their precise Earth resources viewing, communication flight plan today, plus 11 hours of sun-watching and more biomedical experiments.

The space station pilots hosted a live television show Tuesday from their 270-mile high vantage point of Tropical Storm Delia smacking the Texas Gulf Coast.

"Delia's a pretty breezy lady," Lousma said as he watched her move ashore. "You can see what I believe to be the center. You can also see that counterclockwise pattern of cloud flow which is typical of a hurricane."

Flight controllers told the astronauts, who all live near the space center where Delia dumped heavy rains, that there was "little serious flooding as a result of the storm."

"That's one thing about being up here," Lousma said. "The weather ain't bad and there're no mosquitoes."

The controllers were still trying to figure out what caused a loud bump in the night that shook the 100-ton space station and woke the crew from a sound sleep early Tuesday. Bean said he had heard noises in the space house before, but this one was louder and stronger.

"It seemed to shake the ceiling of the workshop," Bean said. "It's the first one of that magnitude I've heard in here. I heard and I felt it."

Justice Dept. leak source

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of the news media say the Justice Department has been the source of leaks about the federal grand jury probe of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said in an interview published today in the Washington Post, Richardson also disclosed that several FBI agents are assisting in the questioning of "all" Justice Department employees about the leaks.

Richardson on Aug. 23 ordered an internal department investigation of the leaks and has, until now, insisted that they could have come from other sources, including the White House or Agnew's office.

"Since then I have indications from news media themselves that some information has come from inside the department," he said. Richardson said the media representatives did not tell him who leaked the information.

He did not identify the media representatives by name and gave no indication whether they were reporters or news executives.

"The thing that has bothered me most of all," said Richardson, "has been the concern that while we are seeking by all practical means to strengthen confidence in the integrity of the department—that something like this, which can only damage the department as well as the individual affected, could happen."

Summit confab begins

ALGERIA (UPI) — Nearly 60 non-aligned heads of state met today to consider third world issues including Arab calls for boycotting Israel and a joint charter for cooperation among liberation movements throughout the world.

The three-day summit conference starting today was the largest in the 12-year history of the movement of non-aligned nations.

Officials said the conference aimed to approve new political and economic action programs in the light of new relationships developing among the superpowers, the United States, the Soviet Union and China.

Presidents, kings, princes, prime ministers and special envoys from 75 nations in Asia, Africa, Latin America and Southern Europe accepted invitations to attend. Forty-five of them had arrived by late Tuesday.

They included Libya's Col. Moammar Khadafi, making his debut at a major international conference; Uganda ruler Gen. Idi Amin; President Anwar Sadat of Egypt; President Tito of Yugoslavia; Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India; and Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia.

Participants gathered in a five-tier horseshoe-shaped amphitheater at the Club des Pins conference complex 12 miles west of Algiers.

A 12-item agenda has been read for the summit by two preparatory sessions held here over the past week by 417 member steering committees and foreign ministers.

Tuesday, the foreign ministers issued a working paper for summit consideration in which Arab states called on the non-aligned countries to isolate Israel by a comprehensive boycott until it withdraws from occupied Arab territory. The paper recommended the action should be taken under chapter seven of the U.N. charter concerning sanctions.

Earlier Tuesday, Palestinian sources said African liberation movements, Palestinian guerrillas and the Puerto Rican Socialist party had agreed to submit to the conference a joint charter for military and political cooperation.

Sources said under terms of the charter, African "freedom fighters" would join the ranks of Palestinians in operations against Israel, or Palestinian commandos would participate with African guerrillas in action against Portugal, Rhodesia or South Africa.

Demo leader seeks Nixon compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. urged his party colloquies today to seek a compromise rather than a continuing confrontation with President Nixon over legislation in the home stretch of the first session of the 93rd Congress.

O'Neill was formally presenting his proposal at a meeting of House Democratic leaders as Congress resumed work after a month-long summer vacation.

"I'm going to suggest to the Speaker (Carl Albert) that we invite (Melvin) Laird up to see if he can't convince the President to compromise on some of these programs he's vetoed or is going to veto," the Massachusetts Democrat said in an interview.

Laird, former defense secretary and before that a long time member of the House, is Nixon's chief domestic counselor, replacing John Ehrlichman, who, with H. R. Haldeman, chief of the White House staff, resigned in the Watergate affair.

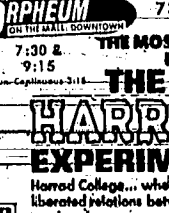

Laird has said the legislative branch is his first love. "We can talk to him. We couldn't talk to Ehrlichman or Haldeman," said O'Neill.

Italy faces deaths

ROME (UPI)—Not enough syringes. Doctors reporting cholera cases hours into raw sewage flowing into the sea.

Italy's cholera outbreak has dramatically exposed some of the shortcomings Italians used to shrug off as part of this country's way of life. Seventeen deaths in eight days have shocked people into awareness that sloppiness can be dangerous.

Health officials have reported 159 confirmed cholera cases, 17 of them fatal, since the disease was first detected in Naples Aug. 28. Scores more of suspected cases are under observation.

"Unless we stamp out the disease within three months, there is a danger that cholera may become endemic, as in some parts of the Middle East," a provincial health officer said Tuesday in Milan.
The city so far has had only one case but receives a steady flow of immigrants from cholera-infested southern Italy.

Health Minister Luigi Gui said during a visit in Bari, one of the main centers of the outbreak, that the spread of the disease had been contained and the condition of patients was "generally satisfactory."

In the opening days of the outbreak, health officials in Naples could not find enough syringes to administer the vaccine. In Torre del Greco, one of the worst hit communities, the outbreak found six of the town's 13 pharmacies closed for summer vacations. A health ministry expert in Rome said the government had been warned of the outbreak five days late.

In Naples, conditions considered normal by its residents took a more threatening aspect.

The city's century-old sewer system, which dumps raw sewage straight into the sea, was accused as one of the main culprits in the outbreak.

Battles epidemic

A FIREMAN splashes disinfectant on the barred entrance of a shop in Naples as the area battles a cholera epidemic which has claimed nine lives this week and has hospitalized 229; of those 159 cases are confirmed cholera. (UPI)

US probes cholera case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Public Health Service is investigating the first suspected case of cholera in the United States since 1911. A Seadrift, Tex., man hospitalized last week with symptoms of the sometimes fatal intestinal disease.

But officials here said it is not linked to the cholera epidemic in Italy.

The Texas man, not further identified, has recovered from illness, said Dr. David J.
Sencer, director of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

An organism isolated from the man appears similar to the one that causes cholera but does not appear to be of the same strain detected in Italy, he said. No other similar illnesses have been reported in the Texas community.

The disease is usually spread by water contaminated with fecal material.

Except for two cholera cases which developed in 1965 at Walter Reed Army Medical Center here as a result of a laboratory accident, no other cases have been reported in the United States since 1911,
Spencer said. Both of the lab workers recovered.

The 22 cases in 1911, including 16 deaths, resulted among immigrants who arrived in Boston and New York from cholera-infested Italian ports.

McCord lectures halted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—
Convicted Watergate
conspirator James W.
McCord's $2,000-a-speech
lecture series has landed him, or at least his lawyer, back in U. S. District Court.

Chief Judge John J. Sirica summoned Bernard Fensterwald, McCord's
attorney, and James J.
Bierbower, attorney for former Nixon campaign aide Jeb
Stuart Magruder, to a 10 a.m.
EDT hearing today to talk about it.

Sirica told Fensterwald last Thursday that McCord should stop his lectures, which were planned for 17 places, mostly college campuses, this month.

When Fensterwald complained that Magruder was going to speak too, Sirica indicated that the restriction
also would apply to him.
Magruder's lawyer, however,
says Magruder has made no speeches.

McCord, on bond pending final determination of his sentence in the June 17, 1972, bugging of Democratic national headquarters, already has spoken in New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. He earned $2,000 for a speech at Sangamon State University at Springfield, Ill., last week.

Sirica handed down his order last Thursday after Special Prosecutor Archibald
Cox said such lecture tours would generate "additional pre-trial publicity" for future defendants in the Watergate case.

Fensterwald told a reporter that he might ask Sirica to reconsider on the ground that McCord would speak only a considerable distance from Washington, where the trials are expected to be held.

In other developments:
— The White House said
President Nixon's lawyers will file a written appeal in the U. S.
Court of Appeals Thursday to Sirica's order instructing
Nixon to turn over Watergate tapes for the judge's inspection.

— The appeals court wrote the White House and Special Prosecutor that it is expediting the schedule for the tapes suit so that an appeal can be made to the Supreme Court before the Watergate grand jury's term expires Dec. 4. Otherwise, if the high court word to order the tapes given to the jurors, a new grand jury would have to start from scratch on the case.

— Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, in an interview, urged the Senate Watergate committee—and Nixon to meet in an attempt to work out a compromise on the committee's request for the tapes. One, of course, he suggested, would be to have the seven Senators on the committee review the tapes in private.

Deputy White House Press
Secretary Gerald Warren said
Nixon was leaving to Attorney General Elliot Richardson the decision whether to present evidence concerning Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to the grand jury investigating Maryland kickbacks. But Warren declined to say whether Nixon would be consulted before Richardson acts.

— The Senate committee will meet next Tuesday to plan its next round of hearings, beginning around Sept. 18.
CNS and NCH said they had not decided whether to resume live coverage. ABE did not respond to a query on the subject.

White House remains mum on apology

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House refused Tuesday to say whether President Nixon had apologized to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler for shoving Ziegler during an appearance in New Orleans Aug. 20.

However, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told reporters "the President and Ron had a number of discussions following the incident."

"They have an excellent relationship," Warren said. "They understand each other fully. The matter is of no great concern to both."

Warren said discussions on

Deadly drink

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More Americans were killed last year in alcohol-related traffic accidents than by homicide, says the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of Transportation.

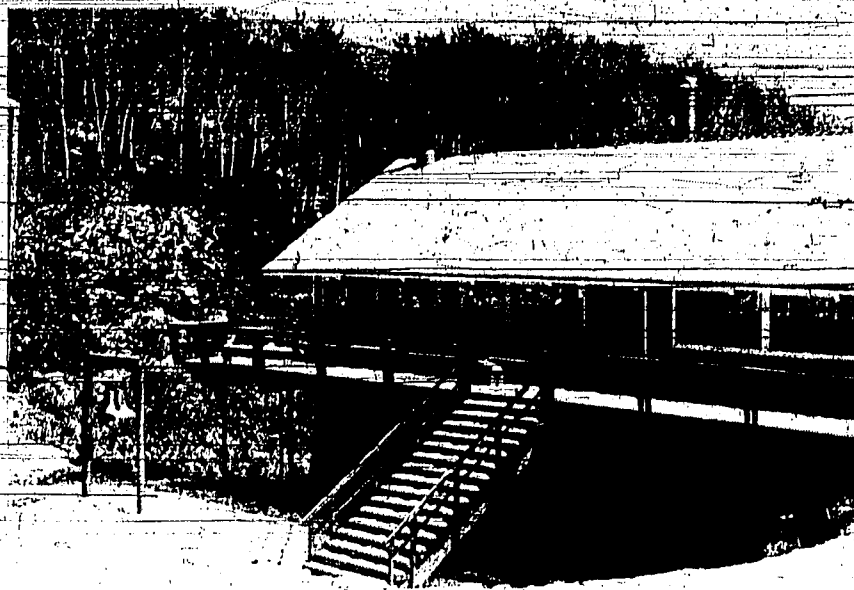

There were 56,000 Americans killed in traffic accidents. About 28,000 deaths were alcoholic related and 19,000 were caused by problem drinkers. There were 18,000 homicides.

Watergate aide adds to staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four trial lawyers have been added to the staff of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald N. Cox to investigate illegal contributions to the 1972 presidential campaign and the secret White House "plumbers" operation.

The four were Jay S. Horowitz, 30, of Philadelphia, a former assistant U.S. Attorney in New York; Frank M. Turkheimer, 33, of Madison, Wis., associate law professor at the University of Wisconsin and a former assistant U.S. Attorney in New York; Charles C. Breyer, 31, assistant district attorney of San Francisco; and John A. Sale, 29, an assistant U.S. Attorney for Connecticut.

Cox said his staff now consists of 37 fulltime lawyers and three part-time consultants, in addition to a professional and clerical staff of 42 persons.

Mountain storm

SKIING ANYONE? It may seem too early for winter to some people but skiers are in full accord with the early storm which left many high mountains around the valley covered in several inches of snow. The Pomerelle ski lodge near Albion retains some of the storm.

Will cuts wife out

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — A rich businessman who died in 1972 left nearly $700,000 to the Israeli Air Force, $12,000 to his son if he got a divorce and not a penny to his wife.

The widow asked the Supreme Court Monday to determine if her husband was mentally competent when he wrote the will.

The businessman was Zvi Harry Haber who died in March, 1972, at the age of 56. Mrs. Leah Haber, 52, said she would contest the document.

At a hearing Monday, William Harris, the counsel for the executors, asked the court to grant probate.

Harris said Haber left nothing to his wife because he said in the will that during his life he had made adequate provision for her.

He left $12,000 to his son, Michael, 33, on the condition that "if at the time of my death he (Michael) is lawfully married then this bequest shall be void."

The court was told that the son and his wife were still married.

The cost of the estate was left to the Israeli minister for defense with a request that it be used for the Israeli Air Force.

Congress vacation over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senators and congressmen return from summer vacation today, having spent a month finding out how their constituents feel about Watergate.

The lawmakers have also had a chance to learn where grassroots sentiments lie in the battle between Congress and the President which has produced four vetoes so far this year and could generate five more in the weeks ahead.

Nixon is planning a series of his own initiatives to gain passage of bills he wants enacted. The chief executive will meet with congressional leaders Thursday or Friday.

Much of Congress' annual work, including passing 10 of 13 appropriations bills needed to run the government, remains unfinished. Before the recess last month, both houses had passed a farm bill, a minimum wage increase, a bill authorizing use of highway funds for mass transit projects and legislation ending the U.S. air war over Cambodia.

Still on the agenda are the issues of impeachment, overseas spending, tax reform and aid to education.

The President wants to discuss ways of getting things moving, an aide said Sunday. A message to Congress outlining Nixon legislative priorities may be sent to Capitol Hill soon, another aide said.

Just before the recess, Congress raised the minimum wage to $2.20 an hour for most workers, but delayed sending the bill to the White House for fear of a pocket veto.

Other bills the President may veto if passed are ones limiting his power to dispatch troops into combat, prohibiting him from impounding appropriated funds and requiring Senate confirmation of the director and deputy director of the budget office.

All four of Nixon's vetoes this year have been sustained, but if public reaction to the President's performance in office is hostile, as gauged by members of Congress, Nixon could face rougher going.

Chairman urges new funding

By PETER LISAGOR
(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Both major parties ought to come up with better ways to finance their national conventions than "to rape" the business community for cash and services, says Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss.

The present method of raising roughly $2 million to stage a quadrennial convention is "an outrage," Strauss asserts.

Strauss, who was his party's treasurer in 1968, speaks from the first-hand experience he gained in putting on the 1972 Democratic Convention in Miami Beach, Fla. He had to raise funds on a day-to-day basis to pay for the hall and other expenses.

Strauss said he would soon propose the creation of prestigious commissions hopefully appointed by the president to study the problem of financing conventions. He has talked to GOP official Richard Herman, who handled the Republican Convention financing in Miami Beach in 1972, and reports that Herman favors a new approach, too.

Conventions have been financed by what Strauss calls the "corporate community," much of the money comes through advertisements in the huge convention program, but not all of it.

"You go in and try to rape the business community for cash and services," Strauss told newsmen here yesterday.

The "services" often take the form of automobiles furnished for convention delegates by affluent dealers, free printing jobs, and other allurements which can lead to suspicions of influence peddling. The most notable example of the latter was the reported cash pledge made to the Republican National Convention, then scheduled to be held in San Diego, Calif., by the International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

ITT had an anti-trust action pending at the time, and charges that the company sought to influence the justice department through a political contribution have not been fully resolved yet.

Strauss, in a free-wheeling discussion with reporters, said he didn't think the Watergate scandals in the Nixon Administration would have an "appreciable effect" on local elections. He admitted to some concern about Democratic losses in Congressional races in Alaska and Maryland.

He disclosed that the national committee was making critical analyses of these races, as well as four assembly contests in California which were won by Republicans.

"The Republicans showed some skills we don't have," he said.

Strauss indicated that most Democrats have "no patience" for the intraparty arguments over party structure, but admitted the issue of guidelines in delegate selection would come to a head next month.

Connally readies plunge

By PAUL HOPE
(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — John Connally is getting ready to plunge seriously into Republican politics this month, when he will begin an eight-state speechmaking swing.

The former Texas Democrat will open his first political tour as a Republican next week at a Republican State Convention in California, and will hit seven more states in the next couple of months, as well as a National Republican Committee meeting in Washington.

Connally sources are playing down the political importance of the circuit-riding, but party sources say he obviously is ready to sample sentiment for a possible run for the presidency.

Speculation about Connally's future took another spurt this week when there were indications around the White House that the former Texas governor still ranks high with President Nixon.

Anne Armstrong, an important presidential adviser and a Texan, passed the word in San Clemente that she thought Connally "right now looks like a very viable candidate" for 1976.

There has been talk in the Republican rumor mill that Nixon might tap Connally for the No. 2 spot if Vice President Agnew's position weakens to the point where he might resign or be impeached.

Although many Republicans have acclaimed Agnew's "fighting spirit" in the face of a criminal investigation in Maryland, polls have shown his presidential stock among Republicans has dropped significantly.

Connally has steered clear of setting up any kind of personal political organization. Some say this was done deliberately so that he would not appear to be overly eager to advance his fortunes in the party that he just joined formally last May.

A Republican party source said Connally "has to get acquainted with Republicans around the country" and that this was the obvious reason he had accepted the speaking engagements.

Connally has asked the Texas-Republican Party headquarters to give him a hand with speaking invitations. One official there said they are being delayed with requests.

His first exposure on the political circuit will be Sept. 8 as banquet speaker at the California Republican Convention in San Diego. He will be in the territory of Gov. Ronald Reagan, another potential presidential contender.

California Republican sources said the invitation to Connally came from the state party headquarters, but obviously it was clear with Reagan, who will be the speaker at the convention. A newsletter put out by the California party on the convention describes Connally as "A new Republican star."

Jerome council votes pay hike for city aides

JEROME — Jerome City Councilmen voted 3-1 Tuesday night to raise their salaries by $10 per month and the mayor's salary by $15 per month.

Judge takes Hagerman suit

By PEGGY CIRI
Times-News writer

GOODING — Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood Tuesday took under advisement arguments concerning development of two sub-divisions in Hagerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and 70 petitioners filed suit in District Court to stop the developments. The suit follows Gooding County commissioners approval of Spring Acres subdivision, owned by John LeMoine and Conestoga Station, owned by Newton Schafer, Twin Falls.

The Browns maintain that the county commissioners do not have sufficient information about the extent of possible damages resulting from the construction of the sub-division to reach their decision.

Robert Weaver, Buhl, attorney for the Browns, questioned several witnesses, including Schifer, Commission chairman Ben Glauber, Aldrich Bowler, John LeMoine, Severt Swensen, Rex Barlogi, Norman Standal and Brown during the Tuesday hearing.

His questions concerned the permeability of the soil, instances of intrusion of ground water and possible contamination of water supplies lower in the valley.

The Browns live one-quarter of a mile downstream from the proposed construction site.

Weaver said the commissioners were guilty of "abuse of discretion" by not requesting a geological survey before approving the project. Such a survey had been recommended by the Soil Conservation Service.

Newton Schafer and LeMoine, defendants in the case, were represented by Robert Paine, Twin Falls. He argued that the county commissioners made a "good, reliable and competent" decision based on more than sufficient information. He said the commissioners did not act arbitrarily or capriciously.

Councilman Marshall Everheart abstained from voting on city ordinance No. 513 which provided for the increases. He said the raise was not big enough.

Everheart, who has objected to the ordinance each of the three times it has been read, said he would prefer to leave the salaries as they were rather than grant a $10 raise.

"Ten dollars a month just isn't worth it after you figure the cost of advertising the ordinance and putting it on the books. I still advocate the council receive at least a 30 per cent raise. The city employees, over the past six years have received an average raise of 40 per cent and the council is entitled to at least 30 per cent," Everheart said.

Councilman Edwin Tinker contended that the councilmen are not in the business to put "bacon and eggs on the table" but rather because they want to serve city residents.

Temper flared when Everheart insisted that the $10 raise be in lieu of expenses now received by council members for in town mileage. Everheart lives in the basement of his store in downtown Jerome. He said the city attorney has stated that the councilmen should record on their expense vouchers trip beginning and ending points for mileage incurred in conducting city business, which is presently not being done.

Councilman S. N. (Shorty) Weeks stated that he has never sought reimbursement for mileage he has not used on city business. "I am downtown two or three times a day for the city parks and recreation department and I will gladly give you (Everheart) the job next year so you can see what it is like. Thousands and thousands of dollars are spent on going to conventions around here. I've never gone to one convention. I have always stayed home and taken care of city business. Councilman Tinker and I have carried the load and you haven't got anything to do," Weeks said.

In other business before the council a letter was read from Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy to Claude Bernard, chairman of the Jerome County Commission. The letter stated that pursuant to the request by the Jerome County Commission and the Jerome Planning Council, "It is the Land Grant Committee's decision to recommend withholding further processing of phase three," the selection of state lieu lands in the Perrine bridge area along State Highway 93.

The letter further stated that the committee will hold its decision on the lieu lands in abeyance until Jan. 1, 1974, pending completion of a site land use study of the area being conducted by the planning council.

The council agreed to accept $1,000 from the South Idaho Planning and Development Council to be used to help defray the cost of a comprehensive study of the city sewer system which is being conducted.

The council also voted to place stop signs on Buchanan Street at 10th in order to make 10th Street a through street.

Howard DuBois, Jerome Chief of Police, asked the council to seriously consider hiring a full time dog catcher. "My department and the mayor are receiving numerous complaints about dogs and some complaints about cats," DuBois said. He noted that one man working four hours a day just can't keep up with the load.

Jack Bowler, owner of the city's garbage pickup service met with the council and was told that the complaints on garbage service have increased recently. It was decided that a list of complaints received by the city clerk would be given to the driver of the garbage truck each morning before he begins his rounds.

Building permits for $74,158 were approved, including four new homes.

Suit filed

FAIRFIELD — The widow of a San Diego man killed in a plane crash near Fairfield in February, 1972 has filed a $2 million damage suit against Sun Valley Airlines, Inc.

The suit, filed in Fourth District Court, alleges negligence on the part of Sun Valley Airlines in the death of Harold A. McCabe. Among the counts of negligence is an allegation that the suits on the plane's left engine were loose at the time of the crash.

The suit was filed by Ada McCabe and her four minor children.

East End Day opens TF fair

Last year the fair board brought back the machinery display which was formerly a favorite of area farmers. This year several of the machinery firms again are displaying equipment north of the grandstands.

An interesting new display this year is the boats which are on the grassy area across from the livestock building.

Members of 4-H clubs will parade into the rodeo arena tonight before the opening performance of the rodeo at 8 p.m. About 185 participants are entered in this year's rodeo competition for $12,600 in prize money.

Don Harrington, Butte, Mont., will be rodeo announcer. Special features will include the Ben Hur chariot race and the opening ceremony under the direction of Cotton Rosser, producer.

Thursday is Hereford day and cow events will begin at 8:05 a.m. The "open to the world" fat steer show is scheduled Thursday afternoon.

Gov. Cecil Andrus will be a special guest Thursday at the fair which is also Twin Falls Day.

Gooding city fuel shows price jump

GOODING — Gooding city councilmen are pondering whether to accept a three-cent per gallon increase in bulk fuel oil for heating city offices.

City Atty. Cecil Hoadley told the council Tuesday night that if it has to buy oil elsewhere at a higher cost than the price listed in the contract awarded to Harbaugh Motor Co. earlier this year, the city could legally sue the firm.

Ed Harbaugh, of the Harbaugh firm, said increase in refinery costs necessitate the raise. Until now, the firm was providing fuel to the city at a loss and purchasing oil from other companies to supply the city, he said.

The Harbaugh firm was the low bidder earlier this year and had a specific cost set in the bid contract.

Councilmen said they will investigate cost of obtaining oil from other sources before reaching a decision.

3 hurt in Buhl accident

BUHL — Two men are listed in critical condition and one man in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital following a truck-pickup accident Tuesday afternoon south of Buhl.

Carl Blackwood, 10, Filer, and Mark Heaps, 18, Buhl, are in critical condition. Listed in fair condition is William John Reynolds, 31, Buhl.

According to Twin Falls deputy sheriff Gil Sweesy, a milk truck driven by Reynolds and owned by Henry Thieman, Buhl, was traveling north on a paved county road five miles south and one mile east of Buhl. As the truck approached an intersection Reynolds saw a pickup truck which appeared to be slowing down. The vehicles hit broadside in the center of the intersection, Sweesy said.

Blackwood was believed to be the driver of the pickup which was owned by Green Giant Company. Blackwood and Heaps were both employed by the company.

The milk truck came up over the front of the pickup tearing the cab from the bed. The truck then rolled over and caught fire. The occupants of the pickup were still in the cab when sheriff's officers arrived at the scene.

Reynolds managed to get out of the truck and went to a nearby farm to phone for help, but no one was at home. He was taken to a local physician and then to the hospital by area residents when they arrived at the scene.

Sweesy said the accident occurred about 2:10 p.m.

Burley backs FAA plan

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Burley city council voted unanimously Tuesday night to fulfill requirements set by the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) with the help of FAA funding to gain permanent certification for the Burley Municipal Airport.

The requirements include installation of fire fighting equipment with foam devices for oil and gas fires and a fence along the airstrip. The FAA can now provide 83.65 per cent funding for the project.

Councilmen Les Morgan and Jim Roper were appointed to work with local legislators in changing a state law which requires the quarterly publication of all warrants issued by cities with under 10,000 in population.

Roper told the council that the city no longer issues warrants but writes checks. City attorney William Parsons will investigate the possibility that the law would not apply to Burley under those circumstances.

A proposal by Mayor Garis Robertson to increase salaries in the Burley Police Department was tabled by the council until the next meeting.

At that time, an up-to-date budget, along with a percentage comparison of salaries in various city departments, will be provided for study before a decision is made.

Robertson said that while Burley's water and street department salaries are above those of most surrounding cities, police department salaries are lower.

Action on the securing of air rights for the city airports southeast runway was delayed for several weeks pending completion of FAA negotiations for those rights.

Currently, two of three property owners involved have given the city air rights over their property, but a third has refused. The air rights are required of the city by the FAA when federal funds are used for airport projects.

If the air rights can not be obtained, the council, considering a condemnation suit.

A clock, donated to the city in 1959 and placed on the corner of the Cassia National Bank building, will be placed on the front of the city hall, following council action last night.

The Cassia National Bank is currently being torn down for construction of a new bank.

The clock has a chime mechanism which has not been used for many years following complaints by residents of the National Hotel, next door to the bank. The mechanism will be put back into operation.

The council voted to approve an amendment to be drawn up for the next meeting, changing the residence requirement for purchase of a bar from one year to 30 days to coincide with state laws.

The amendment will be made retroactive to Sept. 5. A request for rezoning of a residential R-2 district lot to commercial was referred to the city zoning appeals board by the council.

Although the appeals board has not yet been named, Robertson said the five-man board would be appointed within several days.

Laotian troops alerted

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The Laotian armed forces went on full alert Tuesday in response to a Communist Pathet Lao statement that the government was acting in bad faith by not honoring a commitment to sign a draft agreement for a coalition government.

The chief negotiator for the Vientiane government today denied there had been any unanimous agreement to sign such a protocol.

Public Works Minister Ngone Sananikone declared in an interview that a Pathet Lao statement Tuesday saying the government had promised — with U.S. support — to sign the protocol was a product of the "imagination" of special Pathet Lao negotiator Phoumi Vongvichit.

Phoumi said Tuesday that both Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma and U.S. Charge d'Affaires John G. Dean had promised him there would be no attempt by the neutralist government to oppose the protocol in its present form.

Land mine kills farmer

BEIRUT (UPI) — A landmine triggered by a farm tractor killed a civilian today on a country road bordering the Irish Republic, the army said.

An army spokesman said the mine apparently had been planted for soldiers patrolling the border in County Fermanagh, but that the tractor passed the spot first.

The dead man, believed to be a local farmer, was the 800th person killed in four years of non-stop violence among the majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and the security forces of Northern Ireland.

Earlier, police tentatively blamed a Protestant extremist group for a bomb attack Tuesday night outside a Belfast movie theater.

TF theft reported

TWIN FALLS — Rueben Cuellar, 601 Fourth Ave. W., told Twin Falls City Police someone entered his unlocked home and took a combination record-tape stereo player. He said the theft occurred Monday or Tuesday. Cuellar estimated the loss at $250 including two speakers and a number of records and tapes.

Hagerman votes

HAGERMAN — A $380,000 bond election is being held for the Hagerman School District today. The proposed bond is to build a new grammar school.

This is the fourth time Hagerman district voters will be considering a bond to construct a new elementary school. The building now used for Hagerman Elementary School was built in 1928.

According to Kenneth Black, superintendent of Hagerman schools, Hagerman's last school bond was passed in 1953 for a new school gym. He said the bond has been completely paid off.

Hagerman School District voters may cast ballots today from noon to 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall. District voters who reside in Twin Falls County should vote at the office of the upper plant at the Upper Salmon Power Plant.

Ketchum City Council annexes 85 acres

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Ketchum City boundaries grew by about 85 acres Tuesday night as the City Council voted unanimously to annex a portion of the Blawie development, north of the City.

According to Ralph Thomas, vice president and general manager of Sprenger Land Investments, Inc., the annexed area includes a condominium complex, the new Holiday Inn and a portion of the Blawie golf course.

Thomas said he presently did not have figures on the area's assessed valuation.

Boundaries for the land on the east side of U. S. Highway 93 extend from the north city limits, adjacent to the cemetery, to just north of the Holiday Inn and east to the Sun Valley property line. On the west side of the highway, the land extends from the Highway to the Wood River, north to the loading pens.

Thomas said Tuesday's annexation was part of an agreement that, as portions of Blawie grew and the tax base increased, they would be annexed to Ketchum in an orderly fashion.

The annexation was previously recommended by the Ketchum Planning and Zoning Commission. No protests were recorded during the Council's public hearing on move.

In other action the Council:

— Voted unanimously to appeal a Fifth District Court decision in favor of Grayhawk Development Corp., Inc., in the firm's suit against the City of Ketchum and the Sun Valley Water and Sewer District.

The ruling, made by Judge Theron W. Ward July 25, stated that Grayhawk — if it needs other building regulations — be granted hookups to the Ketchum sewage system, and be guaranteed actual sewage service not later than Jan. 1.

During Tuesday's meeting, Councilman Gerald Sidwell said, "I think we have no choice but to pursue this matter."

— Approved a lease agreement with the Conoco Oil Co. contingent on the city attorney's approval, for the city's continued use of the firm's building at 220 3rd Street East to house city fire trucks.

Mayor Kenneth Ritchey said the building was scheduled to be torn down Aug. 15, but Conoco had agreed to an extension to Aug. 1, 1974. Because of lack of space, the City Firehouse, two trucks are parked in the Conoco Building.

Under the agreement, the City would not pay rent for the structure, but would pay costs to demolish the building at the termination of the agreement.

Ritchey also requested Councilman Vern McClellan and Glenn Brannon to meet this week with fire chief Bill Brand and the architectural firm of McMillan and Hayes, Sun Valley, to draw up a preliminary sketch for a proposed new municipal complex to house the fire and police departments and city offices.

— Approved Ritchey's appointment of five-member board to hear possible appeals of the city building inspector's rulings and criticisms of the city building code.

The lack of such a board, which is called for in the Uniform Building Code, was one of the points of contention in a letter written by sixteen Ketchum contractors and building material suppliers, requesting the removal of building inspector John Jacoby.

The board of appeals as appointed by the Mayor included the following: George Loomis, Joseph Koenig, Philip Witzau, Glen McRoberts, and Joe Polivian.

Women march in Santiago

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Middle-class women demanding "bread for our children" organized a mass march through Santiago today to call for the ouster of President Salvador Allende. Organizers predicted thousands of women would take part in the march less than 24 hours after leftist workers staged a giant rally in the capital to mark the third anniversary of the hemisphere's first freely-elected Marxist regime.

The latest round of demonstrations pointed out the sharp split in the nation of 10 million between Allende's leftist labor supporters and middle-class opponents.

"We have no bread for our children!" Women's march sponsors said Tuesday in newspaper advertisements. "We have no drugs for our sick! We have no clothing to cover us! We have no roofs over our heads!"

The women accused the government of leading Chile to a catastrophe and said "Allende does not merit being president of the republic."

The women's march was the most dramatic of a series of anti-government protests across the country that have brought Chile's economy to a virtual halt.

The Central Chamber of Commerce ordered its 250,000 members to close down businesses throughout Chile to protest Tuesday's police slaying of a striking, anti-government bus driver.

The government said the driver, Mario Montiel, was killed and three fellow workers were wounded when national police broke up a transport workers' demonstration near Leyda, 25 miles from the capital.

Bus drivers, cabbies, airline pilots, medical workers and professionals joined the small businessmen today in nationwide walkouts against the government and in support of 45,000 striking truckers.

WORKERS WEARING hard hats and carrying flags march in Santiago during a rally celebrating the third anniversary of the election of President Salvador Allende. Thousands of women are expected to march today calling for Allende's ouster. (UPI)

600 rebellious inmates quelled

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UPI) — Prison guards and 20 shotgun-armed state policemen in riot gear successfully returned 600 rebellious inmates to their cells in Indiana State Prison Tuesday.

The orderly transfer of the prisoners left only one cellblock to secure today. The prisoners transferred were confined to the cellblocks, but have not been locked in their individual cells since a riot during the weekend.

Prison guards who were being hostages for two days by the rebellious prisoners were released unharmed Monday after 6:00 a.m. Otis Bowen, Indiana's governor, announced complete amnesty for prisoners participating in the rebellion.

Besides the 20 state troopers who assisted prison guards during Tuesday's transfer of about 600 prisoners to individual cells in cellblocks "A" and "C," another 50 troopers were on standby alert. But the extra officers were not needed.

"It was orderly and no incidents were reported," said William J. Watt, the governor's press aide. "The situation seems to be good."

Watt said officials decided to wait until today to secure cellblock "D," so guards could search for contraband by daylight.

Despite Watt's statement, there was contention that all was not well at the maximum security institution.

Kidnap ring in Argentina hit

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — More guerrilla and criminal violence hit Argentina Tuesday as police cracked a kidnap ring, killing one of its members, and guerrillas murdered a detective accused of "repression" workers in Buenos Aires.

More than 130 persons have been kidnapped in Argentina this year, including seven foreigners, and nine are still in captivity. Spokesmen for two Argentine companies Tuesday denied reports they had been added to the long list of foreign victims of guerrilla kidnaps and threats.

A federal police trap left one kidnaper dead and five others captured moments after they collected $35,000 dollars in ransom for 14-year-old Sandra Polano and released her unharmed in a Buenos Aires suburb.

Police said officers surrounded two cars carrying the abductors just after they collected the cash. One kidnaper was killed, another wounded and four others arrested in a prolonged shootout and foot chase.

Leftist guerrillas Tuesday claimed credit for the shooting death earlier in the day of Emilio Horacio Larrea, a private detective they said was involved in "repression" of workers in Buenos Aires factories.

A guerrilla communique said Larrea, an unsuccessful city council candidate in the March election, was shot in his office when he "insisted" guerrilla demands for "information."

Spokesmen for Pepsi Cola and Duclito, a Dupont subsidiary, here denied reports that an Argentine employee of Pepsi was kidnapped and that Duclito President James Kelly left the country after being threatened by guerrillas. A Duclito spokesman said Kelly's trip was planned well in advance.

Three dozen suits challenge Nixon holdbacks

By TOM LITTLEWOOD.
(c) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON—More than three dozen lawsuits are in various stages of determination in the federal courts, challenging the President's authority to hold back funds appropriated or otherwise allocated by Congress.

Several of the lower court decisions went against the administration and are now on appeal. Others have arrived at conflicting outcomes. The constitutional issues will ultimately be decided by the Supreme Court.

When the Supreme Court opens its new term in October, it will have an opportunity if it wishes to deal directly with the matter.

In May, the State of Georgia asked the high court to exercise "original jurisdiction" over that state's case, which raises most of the relevant questions. The government ordinarily opposes such expediting motions. But this time the administration agreed that the Supreme Court should, in effect, try the case without waiting for the lower courts to draw out the facts and consider the arguments. The customary role of the nation's highest appellate court is to rule on the basis of "the record" developed by the trial court and the intermediate Circuit Courts of Appeal.

Essentially the issue is whether the President has the right to use his own judgment about making available the money that the legislative branch has voted to spend. The practical effect of an established impoundment system is that the Congress sets the spending ceilings and the executive decides how much.

For the fiscal year that ended in June the administration refrained from spending $14.5 billion allocated by Congress. The biggest single item was $3 billion in water and sewer grant authority under the Water Pollution Control Program.

In addition, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare withheld $1.8 billion, some of it for various school-aid programs, and $1.1 billion of it for health programs. HEW impounded $199 million out of $243 million provided for mental health, and $59 million out of $492 million for the National Cancer Institute.

The legal issue in the case of HEW is complicated by a disagreement over the meaning of the interim spending authority enacted by Congress while the House and Senate were trying to arrive at a regular figure acceptable to President Nixon. Twice HEW money bills were vetoed by the President.

HEW Sec. Caspar W. Weinberger acknowledged that his department was spending at a level below the budget presented by the president. He said his agency would continue to do so in the new fiscal year, at least until an agreeable appropriations bill has been concluded. Weinberger contends the cutbacks are necessary to quell inflation and avoid a tax increase.

Nixon's budget for the last fiscal year contemplated outlays of $246.3 billion and a deficit of $25.5 billion. He pronounced the planned deficit non-inflationary because revenues at full employment would yield a theoretical surplus of $700 million. Actually, because of higher than-expected revenues, the theoretical surplus was even more. Based on final outlays of $246.6 billion, the actual deficit was $14.4 billion — $10.4 billion below the budget estimate.

So far the government has conceded defeat in only two of the impoundment cases by not appealing an adverse decision to the Supreme Court. The 8th circuit (St. Louis) upheld Missouri's challenge to the withholding of highway trust funds. The funds in question had already been released through and the Justice Department felt that the issues could better be presented to the high court in similar pending highway cases from Kansas or South Carolina. At the end of the fiscal year, the administration still held in reserve $2.457 billion in 1973 Federal-Aid Highway Grants.

Another circuit, the 3d in Philadelphia, rejected the government's appeal of a June 28 order by a lower court to release $230 million in Neighborhood Youth Corps summer program funds. Rather than carry the appeal further, the Labor Department released the money.

Before the fiscal-year changeover there was a rash of restraining orders by lower courts preventing the disputed allocations from reverting back to the treasury before the issues were resolved.

Lawyers for the government are kept busy answering all the complaints.

A district court judge stopped the President from abolishing the office of economic opportunity, which has been left with only three segments of the anti-poverty program: community action, legal services and economic development.

However, in another case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger allowed the government to continue refusing new applications for housing subsidies that have been suspended. The administration is appealing a lower court ruling that the President had no right to abandon a program approved by congress, even though the future commitments would involve billions of dollars.

Veterans meet youngsters in open tennis tourney

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —The Young Turks and the Old Guard go to the battlefields today in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

New freshmen fan CSI hopes for track, harrier success

The return of two-time state half-mile king, Gary Sievers of Twin Falls and addition of four more track men have increased College of Southern Idaho track hopes almost to a national scale.

Sievers decided to try for college competition before making his final decision on a four-year school. Earlier, the youngster signed with Brigham Young University and spent some time there.

Joining him as new Eagles are Dan Jatzinger, Wood River, who won the state A-2 half-mile a year ago and worked last year; Gerald Goldson of Mountain Home, a long jumper hurdler; Jim Tucker, of Jerome, one of the state's best in hurdles last spring; and two-time state shot put champion, Tony Walcott of Jerome.

"We feel the addition of these new gives us a great deal of depth in several events and we should be able to give a respectable accounting of ourselves against just about anyone we'll meet," Coach Jim Blaisdell said.

Meanwhile, Coach Blaisdell finds the addition of Jatzinger, Sievers, Steve McClellan and Monte Brothwell to his cross country team another boon.

"We feel we can place well up in the national finals with these youngsters plus the good ones we have returning from last year," he said.

Coach Blaisdell remained very high on McClellan, who was fourth in the world deaf games at 1500 meters and sixth at 10,000 meters. "His times convert to a 4:10 mile and about 30 minutes for the six mile," Blaisdell points out.

"Steve could easily be one of the best junior college cross country runners this year."

CSI will open the harrier season at Ricks in two weeks.

Harmon, Walker grab honors in tennis tourney

Edie Harmon and Jo Walker took the singles title in the Newton-Sherwood tennis tournament over the weekend.

Harmon defeated Mike Brighurst of Paul for the men's single title while Mrs. Walker defeated Carolyn Mastuck for the women's crown.

Brighurst teamed with Frank Petersen of Buhl to win the men's doubles and the women's doubles went to Linda Skiles and Peggy Hansen of Twin Falls. Mike Morgan of Twin Falls was the junior men's title.

In consolation play, honors went to Ben Roberts, Twin Falls, and Linda Skiles.

Parachutists display talent

JACKPOT — Two demonstrations were given over the weekend in Jackpot by the Idaho State University Parachute Club.

Four club members jumped 11,000 feet Saturday to the lawn of the No. 1 fairway of the Jackpot golf course.

Freckleton came closest to the target. Other members of the team were Ruffie Taylor, Dacelle, Kenneth Beaudin, Wallace and John Peabody.

Hubert, Stuart Anderson, Pocatello, piloted the plane.

CSI boasts 17-game fall baseball slate

Seven freshmen have been added to the College of Southern Idaho baseball team which is trying to prepare for a 17-game fall schedule.

Coach Bob Banfield said his Eagles will entertain Idaho State in a doubleheader Sept. 15 and return the games the following Saturday.

"We will have 17 games this fall hopefully although some of them are only tentative right now," he said.

The other newcomers are Tom Babcock, the only outfielder from Minico; Jeff Spring, a catcher out of Boxman, Mont.; Scott Backer, a centerfielder from Astin, Minn., who coach Banfield saw and signed after a Chicago White Sox tryout camp in the Midwest this summer; and outfielder Joe Valasquez of Reno.

Coach Banfield said Valasquez will keep CSI in the lead-off spot in the lineup which Bob Leise provided for three seasons.

"I've ever seen a quicker baseball player," says Coach Banfield of the Nevada youngster. "He runs 0.8 hundred (yard dash) as a freshman in high school but hasn't been clocked since."

"In reality you could say that this has to be a rebuilding year for us, but with the pitching and the hitting potential some of these freshmen have, I feel this club could go a long, long way," concluded Banfield who has taken his last two teams to the national finals.

Cramer and Heeling nab cycle wins

STEVE Cramer of Buhl won the open expert and Gradius Heeling of Twin Falls took the novice open classes in the TT races conducted by the Jerome Wheelers Cycle Club.

Trail machine meeting slated

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Trail Machine Association will meet at 8 tonight in the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Reports on the state ride at Bull Trout Lake, the IFMA board meeting, the recreation fund meeting, the IFMA board meeting, and a "show me" trip on the Pinfield ranger district are scheduled.

A movie on a Sawtooth Hunt will be shown.

Reeds cop water ski honors

FIJER — The Reed family of Fijer, headed by Lloyd Reed, took several trophies over the weekend in the Montana state open water ski tournament in Great Falls.

Lloyd Reed won the senior men's jumping event with a 9-foot leap that also qualified him for his masters rating.

Barbara Reed was second in the senior women's slalom and Shirley Reed took a pair of seconds in the girls jumping and slalom.

Brent Roske was third in the junior girls jumping and also finished third in the junior girls slalom. Mark Roske was third in the boys jumping competition.

Common Energy Savings at Home

INSULATION

Because heating and energy costs in a home can run as high as 50% of total costs, any energy which is lost through the walls, roof, floors, and windows is a waste. To save the heat, air, and energy which is lost, you should insulate your home. Insulation is a material which is placed between the walls, roof, floors, and windows of a home to prevent heat from escaping. It is a very effective way to save energy and money. Insulation is available in many forms, including fiberglass, mineral wool, and foam. It can be installed in a variety of ways, including batts, blankets, and spray-on. Insulation is a simple and effective way to save energy and money. It is a must for any homeowner who wants to save energy and money.

Homes are subject to a lot of heat loss. The main reason for this is the poor insulation of the house. The heat loss can be reduced by a number of ways. One of the most effective is to install a furnace. A furnace provides a steady source of heat, and it can be adjusted to your needs. It can also be used to heat the water in the house. A furnace can be installed in a basement, or it can be installed in a room. It can be installed in a room that is not used often, or it can be installed in a room that is used often. Waldheim ends Middle East tour

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim wound up his five-nation Middle East tour Tuesday, saying he had been encouraged by the general desire for peace he had encountered in talks with government officials in Lebanon, Syria, Egypt, Jordan and Israel.

Waldheim flew from Amman—the last stop on his 10-day tour—to Algiers where leaders of about 20 non-aligned nations will meet Wednesday.

In Algiers, the Arab states called on the non-aligned countries to isolate Israel by comprehensive boycott measures until it withdraws from occupied Arab land.

The conference also had before it an Algerian suggestion that Israel's refusal to withdraw from Egypt, Syria and Jordan "could lead non-aligned countries to take individual or collective measures against it."

On his departure from Amman, Waldheim told newsman his visit had given him a "greater understanding of the Middle East conflict."

"This has encouraged me," he said. "The visit has given me an excellent understanding of the numerous problems that face these countries."

"This visit has shown me there exists a general desire for peace in the area," he said.

Waldheim had said throughout his tour on a "fact-finding" mission. But the Beirut newspaper Al Hayat said Tuesday he had submitted to the countries involved "specific solutions."

Diplomatic progress in Syria had said earlier. Waldheim was carrying proposals for ending the conflict.

Al Hayat said Waldheim sought, in each country prior approval of a draft agenda for UN-sponsored negotiations to be held at the level of UN-delegate or at any other level to be agreed upon.

Al Hayat said the response of the Arab countries had made Waldheim think in terms of "improving his final resolution so that it would forestall Palestinian objections to talks."

Miami man, 22, falls 6 floors

MIAMI (UPI)—On Aug. 16, Paul Wilson, 22, fell six floors in what was described by co-workers as a wagnive position and landed face down on hard dirt.

Today, he is still alive and recovering enough to talk about it.

"It seems like falling six stories would be a matter of a few seconds—that you don't have time to think of something," he said. "I wish I could describe the fall, but I actually do not remember it at all."

Wilson was working at the end of a sheer concrete wall on the sixth floor of an unfinished concrete building when his hard hat fell off. He reached out to grab it and became airborne.

His jaw, nose and cheek were smashed, but he is expected to recover fully and the staff at the hospital where he spent a week called him "our miracle case." Wilson was uninjured from the neck down and is at a loss to explain why.

The father, Ernest L. Wilson, has been to the construction site several times to try to figure out how his son fell. He said the left side of his face apparently hit a shallow gully and the rest of his body landed on higher ground.

"I bounced a few times," says the younger Wilson. "The line of my body must have been such that I absorbed the shock."

Wilson said steelworkers are very conscious of the hazards of working on tall buildings.

"Steelworkers are very conscious of falling," he said. "They have a term they call bellying out. It's just taking it (a fall) on your belly. About eight or nine days after I woke up, I realized by looking at the scratches on my chest and stomach that's what I must have done."

Drugs spark plague

NUERNBERG, Germany (UPI)—Drug abuse has sparked a hepatitis epidemic among U.S. troops in Bavaria, the frontier outpost of Western defenses, an Army doctor said Tuesday.

Dr. Ward Cates, preventive medicine officer of the U.S. Army's 130th general hospital, said the contagion fanned by "needle freaks" could soon reach one out of every 50 soldiers and dependents in Northern Bavaria at its present rate of spread.

"We are seeing a hepatitis epidemic," Cates said, "despite pronouncements by officials that the drug problem has leveled off or is going down."

Cates said in an interview, "The rate of viral hepatitis, predominantly hepatitis B, is on the rise. This form is related to drug abuse and the number of hepatitis cases is the most medical index of the amount of drug abuse within the local military community."

Hepatitis is an infectious inflammation of the liver. It is contagious and can be fatal.

Cates, 39, of Twin Falls, said there were 82 cases of hepatitis reported in August and 82 in July within the U.S. military community in Northern Bavaria, a sprawling military complex that guards the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's frontiers with the Soviet bloc.

The region faces Czechoslovakia and East Germany and includes such major U.S. Army posts as Nuremberg, Bamberg, Fuerth, Erlangen and Ansbach.

Unofficial estimates of the number of U.S. troops and dependents in the area run as high as 90,000, although the Army discloses no official tally.

Army spokesmen have said the rate of hard-drug usage among GIs in West Germany has dropped off this year from peaks reached late in 1972, based on the results of compulsory command-wide urinalysis testing.

"Urinalysis is full of loopholes that render the validity of the results wide open question," Cates said.

"On the other hand, with hepatitis results we can better gauge the seriousness of the problem we have on our hands."

Couple recites promises

GOODING — Marlene Carol Varin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Varin, Gooding, became the bride of Bradley Gardner, Idaho Falls, in a double ring ceremony Aug. 18.

The wedding was performed by Rev. Edson Gilmore, Gooding, in an afternoon ceremony in the United Methodist Church. Gooding. Baskets of mint-colored gladioli with gold and yellow daisies decorated the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length empire styled gown of embossed lace with a flowing train. The bodice was trimmed with satin ribbon and also was of sheer lace. Her elbow-length veil was gathered to a small cap by a headpiece of embossed lace and seed pearls. Her bouquet was fashioned of golden daisies, yellow carnations, baby breath and fern with green satin ribbon streamers.

For something old, the bride carried her grandmother's wedding band and for something borrowed, her veil was made from the veils of her sister, Marilyn Yore and sister-in-law, Jill Varin.

Mrs. Keyan Varin, Castleford, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Leslie Gardner, Idaho Falls, and Connie Glauner and Janet Conrad, both Gooding.

Attending the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Vernon Gardner, Idaho Falls, was Greg Gardner, his brother, Idaho Falls. Ushers were Dick Bliss, Grangeville; Terry Arhart, Boise, and Gerald Miller, Idaho Falls.

A reception for about 150 guests was held after the ceremony in the church. Members of the Gooding Methodist Church WSCS were in charge. Mrs. Dan Yore was in charge of the guest book and gifts were arranged by Holly McCombs, Boise; Mrs. Katherine Smith, Murray, Utah, and Mrs. Diane Eckles and Connie Robinson, Boise.

The refreshment table, covered in white nylon over lime green and decorated with green tapers was centered with a white three-tiered wedding cake decorated by fresh flowers.

The couple took a wedding trip to Sun Valley.

The couple will reside in Idaho Falls. The bride is a graduate of the Gooding High School and Boise State College. She is currently employed in the medical records department of the LDS Hospital, Idaho Falls.

The bridegroom was graduated from Idaho Falls High School and attended Boise State College. He is now employed by the Nuclear Aircraft Co., Idaho Falls.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Connie Robertson, Janet Conrad and Mrs. Everett Conrad, Gooding, and held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Glauner, Gooding.

A reception was hosted by the bridegroom's parents in Idaho Falls, Aug. 25. The bridegroom's parents also provided a patio dinner at the home of the bride's parents following rehearsal.

MR. AND MRS. BRADLEY GARDNER

Canton, auxiliary plan memorial fete

TWIN FALLS — Members of Collax Canton 19, and Ladies Auxiliary of Patriarch Militant have announced plans for a memorial service for Brig. Gen. Roy Ingle during the October meeting.

A Halloween party will also highlight the Oct. 1 meeting of the group, it was announced Monday night. Members met Monday in the IOOF Hall for a pot luck dinner and regular business meeting. Mrs. Helen Breeding, president, conducted the meeting.

She was named delegate to the Department Association meeting to be held Oct. 14 in Burley. It was also announced an inspection will be held Nov. 5 in Buhl.

Mrs. Goldie Ridgeway gave the "Thought for the Day" and Betty Dameron, the closing thought. The Oct. 1 meeting will also be held in the IOOF Hall.

Country club lists activities

TWIN FALLS — The Blue Lakes Country Club Men's Golf Club championship is set for Sept. 8 and 9 according to a schedule of activities for September released by club officials.

There will be a 36 hole medal play.

Other September golfing activities include Scotch ball Sept. 15, Ladies' Golf Club championship Sept. 21, and a Ladies blue 'n' red return match on Sept. 27 with a 9:30 a.m. shotgun tee off. There will be a Ladies Golf Association general meeting following lunch.

A roaring 20's party is planned for Sept. 29 with Matt Devine's roaring 20's music group. Members will receive details by mail.

Club officials announce that there will be no Scramble Tournament this year due to lack of interest, and that due to the large number of golf enthusiasts, no local guests will be allowed to golf on Saturdays or Sundays.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 63-year-old man who has been looking forward to retirement after 40 years with one company. I dreamed of traveling, and now my wife and I can finally afford it. Here comes the problem: Our son just gave us the news that he and his wife are splitting up and he is taking his two sons and she is taking the two daughters, and he wants US to raise the boys! His mother is all for it, and I am all against it. I say, we raised ours and now he can raise his.

As I see it, if he wants to end his marriage and chase skirts again, he can hire someone to look after his children. His mother has always been a softie, and he can get anything he wants from her.

Please, please, help me get my wife to see things my way. I know I am right, but I can't convince her.

TOO OLD FOR KIDS

for kids

DEAR TOO: My telling you that I see it your way may not have any influence on your wife's decision, but I think your son ought to paddle his own canoe.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, married, and have a 14-month-old son whom I adore. Now you'd think with all I have to do I'd be busy enough to keep me satisfied, but I'm not. I keep a clean house, cook three good meals a day, and my laundry is up-to-date.

I want to really be somebody and do something besides housework day in and day out. I'd even be satisfied with a factory job but nobody will hire me. I think it's because I tell the truth on the job applications. I quit school in the 9th grade, which was the dumbest thing I ever did. Now I realize it, but I can't turn back the clock.

Do they have schools for dropouts like me? I want so much to get my high school diploma. I know when my son gets older he will be ashamed of his mother because she didn't even finish 9th grade.

When people use big words and say things I don't understand, I just keep quiet because I'm too ashamed to let on that I don't know what they're talking about.

Please help me, Abby.

FAILURE

DEAR YOUNG WOMAN: I refuse to call you "Failure" because "Failure" are satisfied with their lot, and you are not. You can get your high school diploma thru an adult education program. Get in touch with a counselor at your nearest public high school, or write to the General Education Development Council, 1 Dupont Circle, Washington, D. C. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a business associate who is also a friend, and he always greets me with a big hug and kiss even tho I don't do anything to encourage him.

My husband doesn't like it and thinks I could do more to control the situation.

I don't want to make a big deal out of it, but I really don't know how I can keep this man away from me without insulting him. Maybe I am too timid, but I can't just tell anybody off. Is there another way?

TIMID

DEAR TIMID: You don't have to tell him off. Greet him with an outstretched HAND [for shaking] instead of open arms for hugging and kissing.

League tea set Monday

TWIN FALLS — The League of Women Voters' annual Membership Tea will be at 8 p.m. Monday at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

The tea will be in the cafeteria and a tour of the special education facilities is scheduled, since the league plans to undertake a state-wide study of special education.

The league is a non-partisan organization. Its main purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in all levels of government. A primary league activity is to inform voters through voter service efforts.

The Twin Falls league is composed of members from Buhl, Jerome, Kimberly, Hansen and Murfreesboro as well as Twin Falls. Members plan to further increase public education on vital issues in the surrounding communities and have in the past covered the Magic Valley counties with voting information during state and national elections.

Reviews of forthcoming studies will be presented at the tea. Mrs. Tom Nelson, president, said new studies in the coming year will include special education in Idaho programs for the gifted, physically, emotionally and mentally handicapped, and land use planning in Idaho. A new national study on "campaign financing" will be started this fall.

Continuing areas of league concern are environmental, quality, human resources, trade and representative government on a national level. On a state level, the league will continue to work for quality education and better financing for Idaho schools. Local studies on the Snake River canyon and consumer protection will be continued.

Mrs. Nelson stressed that the league provides an excellent opportunity for new residents to become involved in their community and the league particularly invites them as well as teachers and College of Southern Idaho students to attend the tea.

All women of voting age are encouraged to take part in any of the league's voting program activities.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Tom Nelson, 733-4421, or from Mrs. Monte Bell, 733-5000.

against a 5-1 trump break or a 6-1 break in either minor suit. The other declarer must have been a disciple of our old friend Generous George. He decided to forget about really abnormally suit breaks and the location of the king of clubs and see what could be done if there were no singletons out against him. He led a heart, a trick two and ducked in dummy. East won and led back the jack of clubs. South's queen was covered by West's king and dummy's ace. South led dummy's last diamond to his king. Ruffed a diamond with the queen of trumps, drew trumps and eventually discarded his last diamond and his two clubs on dummy's hearts.

Today's hand decided an IMP match. Both Souths played six spades against a queen of diamonds lead. One South player cashed two diamonds immediately, ruffed a diamond with the nine of trumps and led a club toward his queen.

As he pointed out later on, he would have made the slam if East held the club king. If hearts broke 3-3, if a heart-diamond squeeze developed or if West made the mistake of leading his fourth diamond.

He wasn't quite right about this. His play would have failed.

Nonaligned summit set

ALGIERS (UPI)—African liberation movements, the Palestinian guerrillas and the Puerto Rican Socialist party have agreed to submit a joint charter for military and political cooperation to the summit conference of nonaligned nations opening Wednesday, Palestinian sources said today.

The sources said the group consists of all 14 African liberation movements recognized by the Organization of African Unity (OAU), the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), parent body of the main Palestinian guerrilla factions, and the Puerto Rican Socialist party.

The 16 organizations have delegations here attending the nonaligned gathering as observers.

The theme of the document, the sources said, was "a common plan of action all over the world in the political and military fields."

"To give a concrete example of what the charter could mean in practical terms, let us suppose that Palestinians in an Arab country laid their hands on a Portuguese spy," a Palestinian official said. "They can liquidate him themselves on behalf of PRELIMO (the Mozambique Liberation Front) or PAIGC (the Liberation Movement in Portuguese Guinea)."

He said the charter could also mean African "freedom fighters" joining the ranks of Palestinian guerrillas in operations against Israel, or Palestinian commandos participating with African guerrillas in action against Portugal, Rhodesia or South Africa.

The sources did not make clear whether the draft charter will be ready in time for presentation to the foreign ministers' conference, scheduled to end today, or will be sent directly to the summit meeting on Wednesday.

The foreign ministers held two meetings Monday to consider a 10-item agenda.

They decided to form two political and economic committees to meet today to draft policy declarations and resolutions for summit action.

Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, whose father was one of the founders of the nonaligned nations movement, arrived today to participate in the conference. Other arrivals for the summit starting Wednesday included Syrian President Hafez Assad, Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba and Sultan Qaboos bin Said of Oman. Altogether some 70 chiefs of state or their representatives will attend the four-day summit.

The theme of the document, the sources said, was "a common plan of action all over the world in the political and military fields."

Jane Reports...

JANE ARMSTRONG, Consulting Home Economist
for Buttrey Food Stores

Nutritious, healthful eating can help you enjoy better health and a sense of well-being. But, how do you watch your nutritional food intake — and watch your budget, too? Well, a change in some of your eating habits can be part of the answer.

To begin with many nutritionists say that the typical American diet contains more protein than necessary. A daily menu including eggs at breakfast, a meat sandwich at lunch, a large serving of meat or dinner and milk during the day would add up to more protein than necessary. So you can cut down on protein (just remember to have some protein at every meal).

One way you can keep meat expenditures down and still get necessary protein is to shift to other high-protein foods. You can save if you're aware of the many sources of protein and use them wisely. Sources for animal protein (the highest quality protein) include meat, fish, poultry, dairy products and eggs. Non-animal (incomplete) protein can be found in cereals, whole grains, legumes, nuts and certain vegetables. To improve the quality of non-animal protein, nutritionists recommend eating two or more vegetable proteins together. One example combines rice with beans, as it's done in the South and in Mexico. A second alternative would be to top beans, such as "refrito", with shredded cheese.

Another practical way to get lower cost protein is to serve smaller portions of meat. Instead of a half pound per serving, plan on 3 or 4 ounces. Then include more vegetables in your meal. Or stretch the meat you're serving. When making meat loaf or meatballs, for instance, mix nonfat dry milk and cereal into the meat.

Don't overlook fish, either. It's true that with a decreasing supply of certain fish, prices have risen — but there are still many economical choices. Fish varieties are easy to substitute in recipes... to if you prefer or halibut over striped. Beyond your range, substitute perch, cod, pollock, or turbot.

Look for other money-saving nutritional ideas this week at Buttrey Food Stores and give them a try. They might just provide some of the help you need in balancing your budget and serving more nutritious meals.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to organize the various endeavors in which you are involved so you have an extremely good arrangement for the future. Delve into property matters that can add to your income. Keep up with your bookkeeping.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Making the collections that are possible and paying your bills on time is wise and right. Obtain advice from business experts at this time. Show more devotion to mate tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You feel dynamic today and can now engage in new outlets that will be profitable to you. Some association with persons whose background differs from yours can be very enlightening now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You will need to obtain more data if you want to make certain activities more successful. Generous affection will please your loved one at this time. You deserve relaxation tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Making new contacts in business is especially fine at this time. Repay social obligations by entertaining loyal friends. Discuss a vital subject with a steadfast friend.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Ideal day to talk with highwheels and have them show you how to make a better place for yourself in the world. Show your finest creativity. The evening is ideal for attending the social.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You have an opportunity to engage in new activities and make this an enjoyable day. Also time for obtaining new data and looking into new outlets that are profitable. Think logically.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You have an opportunity to delight the one you love, so get busy doing just that. You can now complete some unfinished tasks and put your affairs in better order. Sidestep arguments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Hold a conference with an associate and come to a better meeting of minds. Be sure to take care of a civic matter in an efficient and logical manner. Show others that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Attend to those important duties early in the day and then go shopping for the apparel you need and want. Plan time for health treatments. Become a more dynamic and charming person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You want to have a good time and can do so if your work is done. The romantic side of life is especially fine tonight. Take that chip off your shoulder and be happy. Be calm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Cooperate with kin and take steps to make your home more comfortable. Make sure utilities are in good order. Tidy the appliances that make life easier and cleaning less laborious.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Run the errands and do the shopping that make everything run more efficiently at home. You may get a letter today that can bring happiness. Do some entertaining at home tonight.

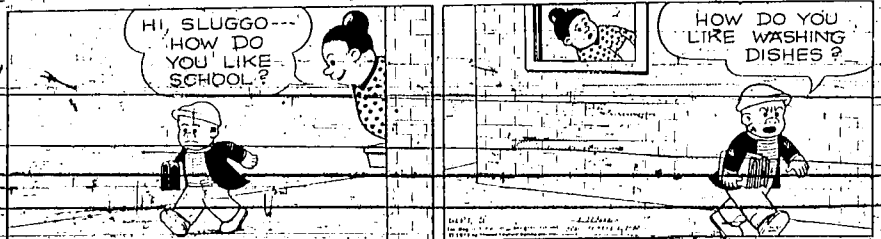

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: He or she will be one of those intelligent young people who must follow an academic educational curriculum in order to be happy and successful in the future. There could be considerable fame in this child, and your progeny will be a source of happiness for you. A good religious training early in life is important. The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Why that tissue called fat tends to develop mostly around the waistline rather than elsewhere on the bodies of numerous souls remains a medical mystery. However, surgeons have noted this oddity. After certain patients have undergone skin grafts from the abdomen to the arms, some of said patients years later developed fatty bulges in the arm tissues even as their midsections expanded in middle age.

TWIN FALLS—Mr. and Mrs. Greg Wasko, 101 1/2 Twin Falls, will be honored with a 25th wedding anniversary got together at 7 p.m. Sunday at the couple's children, Cynthia and Ken Wasko, both Twin Falls, will be hosts for the event.

Walker appointed

IDAHO FALLS—Vincent A. Walker has been appointed director of the Test Reactions Division of the Idaho Department of the chemical engineering Atomic Energy Commission. Walker has been serving as acting director for test reactions since April.

CHEESE NUTTY DIP

1 cup cooked rice
1 cup wheat germ
1/4 cups chopped walnuts
1 onion
1/2 cup mushrooms, sliced or chopped
1 pound sharp Cheddar cheese, shredded
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 dashes pepper
4 eggs, beaten
Combine rice, wheat germ, walnuts, onion, mushrooms, cheese, garlic powder, salt and pepper in large bowl. Mix well.

Add eggs and mix well. Pack mixture into a well-greased 9 x 5 loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees for 60 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand 10 minutes, then carefully remove onto platter. Makes 6 to 8 servings.
